SENATE.... ALBANY, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Mr. MONROE presented the bill to incorporate the Church Building Society of the Protestant Church.

By Mr. STUYVESANT, to incorporate the Mechanics' Institute of the City of New-York.

By Mr. BEARD, to authorize the New-York Savings Bank to invest a greater amount of money than is now allowed by law.

By Mr. BEARD, to amend the New-York Savings Bank Act.

By Mr. HOSKINS, to extend the time for the Fire Insurance Companies to make their annual report.

By Mr. BROOKS, to preserve the harbor of New-York and remove the obstructions therefrom.

Mr. PUTNAM called up the consideration of the resolution in regard to the improvement of the navigation of St. Clair flats.

Mr. PRATT moved amendments, including the Hudson River.

Mr. BROOKS laid upon the table the following resolution, the same as offered in Portland, [illegible]:

Resolved, That the Attorney General, if in his judgment the public interest requires, institute proper suits in the Supreme Court for the purpose of vacating and annulling the letters patent issued under the direction of the Commissioner of the Land Office to HENRY RUGGLES, for certain land under water, bearing date the 5th of July, 1852.

Mr. SHERRILL, pursuant to motion, introduced the following bill: "An act authorizing the Superintendent of the Banking Department to invest moneys belonging to the Bank Department."

SECTION 1. The Superintendent of the Bank Department is hereby authorized to invest any money in the Treasury, belonging to the Bank fund, in the purchase of a Bank Fund Stock, becoming due not later than the year 1859, on such terms as he may deem best for the interest of the said Fund: Provided that such stock shall not be purchased at a price exceeding the par value thereof.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

ASSEMBLY.... ALBANY, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The Standing Committees were announced as follows:

Select Committee relative to the Board of Brokers—Messrs. Blatchford, Lowrie, Davidson, Seymour and Kennedy.

Committee on Property of Religious Corporations—Messrs. Stebbins, Stephens, Raymond, S. B. Ogden and O'Keefe.

Mr. ORELL reported the bill to expedite the canvass of the votes at the special election in the Ontario District.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

THE NEW-YORK POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Mr. STUYVESANT introduced the following bill:

AN ACT to relative to the Police Department of the City of New-York.

SEC. 1. The first, seventh and eighth sections of article second, and the first section of article third, of the act in relation to the Police Department of the City and County of New-York, passed April 15, 1853, are hereby repealed; and the Chief of Police, as therein named, shall hereafter be appointed by the Board of Commissioners of Police, herein provided for. The Chief so appointed shall hold his office for the term of four years from the time of his appointment, and the term of office of the Chief of Police shall forever thereafter be four years from the date of commission.

SEC. 2. The second section of article third of the act in relation to the Police Department of the City and County of New-York, passed April 15, 1853, is hereby repealed so as to read as follows: "Every officer, patrolman and doorman must be a citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, a resident of the City of New-York, and a resident of the district in which he shall reside, and, previous to his appointment, shall present to the President of the Board of Commissioners of Police, a certificate signed by twenty-five respectable citizens, certifying that they have been personally acquainted with the applicant for five years last past, and that during that time such applicant has borne a good character for honesty, morality and sobriety. The mayor shall transmit to the President a certificate of a surgeon, appointed by the Commissioners of Police, that he has professionally examined such applicant, and that he is a man of sound body and robust constitution, and is able to sustain the labors and exposures of a patrolman. Every applicant must also establish to the satisfaction of the Board that he can read and write legibly the English language, and that he understands the first four rules of arithmetic. All vacancies in any of said offices shall be filled in like manner. The members of the Police Department (except as provided for in this act) shall hold their offices during good behavior, and may be removed for the same as hereinafter provided."

SEC. 3. There shall be, in all of the City of New-York, are hereby created and appointed a Board of Commissioners of Police, for the establishment of rules and regulations of the Police Department of the City and County of New-York; for the appointment of a Chief of Police, and all officers, including Clerks, Policemen, and Doormen, connected with the Department; which Board, on the first day of July, A. D., 1855, shall succeed to all the powers and duties of the Board of Commissioners of Police heretofore established. And on that day the term of office of the present Chief of Police shall expire, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair or annul the validity of any appointment heretofore made, except the appointment of the present Chief of Police and all appointments by him made. Nor shall the act be construed to prevent the continuance in office of the present Chief of Police, until his successor shall be appointed.

SEC. 4. The Commissioners named in the last section, shall meet on the 30th day of June, 1855, between the hours of 10 o'clock in noon, and 1 o'clock P. M., at the office of the County Clerk, in the City Hall of the City of New-York, and the County Clerk shall give notice to each Commissioner the oath of office, and to prepare ballots, which prepare four ballots, upon two of which shall be written the words "For short term," and upon the other two ballots shall be written the words "For long term." Such ballots shall be by him deposited in the Jury Box, and the Commissioners shall each draw one of said ballots. The term of office of the two who shall draw the ballots designated "For short term" shall expire on the 31st day of December, 1857; and the term of office of the two who shall draw the ballots designated "For Long Term," shall expire on the 31st day of December, 1859. In case of failure or refusal of all the Commissioners to attend such meeting, the County Clerk shall draw for either or all of such absentees, having which, he shall have the same effect as though the Commissioners were all present; and the oath of office shall be administered before they enter upon the duties of the office.

SEC. 5. The Board of Commissioners of Police shall organize on the 1st Monday in July, 1855, or as soon thereafter as practicable, shall select one of their number as President for one year, and shall appoint a Clerk who shall hold his office during the pleasure of the Board, and whose duty it shall be to attend stated meetings of the Board, and keep a record of its proceedings, and who will be paid by the Supervisors of the City and County of New-York, a salary not exceeding $1,500 per annum. On the 1st Monday in July of each year, the Board shall re-organize by the appointment of one of its members as President for the ensuing year; and all orders, notices, appointments to or expulsions from the Department, shall be issued in the name of such President, and attested by the Clerk of the Board. The Board shall have exclusive power to appoint the Clerk to the Chief of Police, who shall continue to be paid by the Supervisors of the City and County of New-York in the manner now provided for.

SEC. 6. The Board of Commissioners of Police shall be provided by the Common Council of the City of New-York with a room, in which they shall hold sessions daily, except on Sundays and days usually observed as holidays, for transacting the duties devolving upon them, and for the purpose of uniformity in their proceedings, shall designate in their regulations specific days for specific classes of duties. A majority of their number shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but no appointment or expulsion shall be made except in concurrence of three members of the Board. For their services the Commissioners herein provided for shall severally receive a salary not exceeding $2,000 per annum, to be fixed upon by the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of New-York, which salary shall not be diminished during the continuance of their term of office.

SEC. 6. At the general election in the year 1857, and in every succeeding year thereafter, there shall be elected by the electors of the City of New-York, in the same manner that county officers for said City are elected, two Commissioners of Police; but no ballot shall have upon it more than one name for each Commissioner; and the two persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. The persons so elected shall, on or before the first day of January next ensuing such election, take the oath of office before the Clerk of the Board of Police Commissioners, and on said first day of January shall succeed to all the powers, duties, liabilities and emoluments of the members of the Board of Commissioners first named in this act, and shall hold their office for four years thereafter. Vacancies occurring in the Board by death, resignation or removal, shall be filled for the residue of the term in the same manner that vacancies are filled that occur in the office of a Justice of the Supreme Court.

SEC. 8. No Commissioner of Police appointed or elected under the provisions of this act, and who shall qualify by taking the oath of office, shall hold any other office. The acceptance of any other office shall be deemed a resignation of the office of Commissioner of Police.

SEC. 9. The Mayor of the City of New-York shall continue to be the head of the Police Department in said City, and shall be a member (by virtue of his office) of the Board of Commissioners of Police herein provided for, and shall be entitled to vote upon all questions arising in said Board, and entitled to all the powers of a member of the Board, but without compensation therefor.

SEC. 10. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 10. This act shall take effect immediately.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS IN NEW-YORK.

Mr. W. H. AITKEN, pursuant to notice, presented the following bill:

AN ACT to legalize Primary Elections in the City of New-York.

Whenever a political party in the City of New-York having an organization representing the members of the party residing in said City, shall twenty days previous to any general election, notify the Common Council thereof that they have resolved to hold a primary election at the same time and place at which the general election shall be held, a box marked "Primary," and with the names of such party, shall be provided by said Common Council, at the polls of each election district.

At such election every elector who has voted for the candidates for State officers, for the State Legislature, and for Congress, nominated by any party giving said notice, or either of them, may deposit a ballot in the box marked "Primary," appropriated for such a party. Such ballot shall be endorsed "Primary," and shall contain the names of persons, not exceeding ten, residing in the district in which the election is held.

The persons having the greatest number of votes, shall constitute together in each election district, a committee for the same, for one year, commencing on the 1st January then next ensuing, from whom shall be selected, at a regular meeting of the said committee, duly convened on a notice of six days, all committees and conventions required for any political purposes of said party in any Ward, County, State, or in the United States, according to the rules, usages and practice of the party, whom they are chosen to represent; and said committees and conventions shall be composed exclusively of persons so selected.

All proceedings under this act shall be conducted, as far as possible, in the same manner as at general elections; and all laws, now or hereafter in force, in relation to such elections, as to the manner of voting and of challenges, the canvass and contests of votes, and all penalties for willful and corrupt false swearing or affirming, for neglect of duty, for bribery, menace, or other corrupt means or device whatsoever, to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or for any other conduct unlawful in relation to general elections, shall be applicable to elections held pursuant to this act.

Mr. STUYVESANT then introduced a bill providing that the Mayor of the City of New-York and the members of the Board of Aldermen of said City, or a majority thereof, shall meet in convention when summoned by the Board of Aldermen or a majority of the members, and appoint the Police Court Clerks and Clerks of the District Court in said City. It shall, nevertheless, be lawful if the Mayor, after due notice, shall neglect to appear, for the members of the Board of Aldermen, or a majority thereof, to proceed and appoint the Clerks of the said Courts in the same manner and with like effect as if the Mayor was present. The term of office of the present Police Court Clerks, and also those appointed under this act, shall be the same as the term of office of the District Court Clerks.

Mr. ORELL, from the Select Committee to whom was referred the bill entitled "An act to expedite the canvass of votes for Senator in the Twenty-ninth District, reported the bill amended as follows:

SECTION 1. The Board of County Canvassers in the County of Livingston, and the Board of County Canvassers in the County of Ontario, shall each meet at the office of the Clerk of their respective counties, and canvass and determine the number of votes given at the said special election for Senator, on the Thursday next following said election.

SEC. 2. The Clerk of the County of Livingston, and Clerk of the County of Ontario, shall each transmit a certified copy of the certification of the determination of their respective Boards of County Canvassers to the Secretary of State, by mail, immediately after the completion of the said canvass.

SEC. 3. The Secretary of State shall, without delay, on the receipt of the said certificates, place them on file in his office, and immediately give notice to the presiding officer of the Senate, that the person having the greatest number of votes, as shown by the aggregate of the aforesaid certificates of the County Canvassers, is duly elected Senator in the Twenty-ninth Senate District.

SEC. 4. The provisions of the act of 1847, in relation to County and State Canvassers, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, are hereby suspended, and declared inoperative and inapplicable to this special election.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of State, immediately upon the passage of this act, to transmit to the Clerk of the County of Ontario, and to the Clerk of the County of Livingston, each one hundred copies of this act, for the use of the several towns in their respective Counties.

SEC. 6. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the County of Ontario, and the Clerk of the County of Livingston, immediately upon the reception of the said copies of this act, to distribute to each of the Supervisors and town Clerks, in their respective counties, one copy each of the same.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect immediately.

Forgery of Texas Bonds—Important Arrest in Wall-street.

Yesterday afternoon a very important arrest on a charge of forgery was effected in Wall-street by GILBERT F. HAYES, of the Bank Police. Quite recently some of the money brokers commenced buying the old Texan certificates. Of late there has been put into circulation in Baltimore, Philadelphia and New-York, a quantity of spurious certificates with the forged signatures of the auditor and officers of the Government, so handsomely executed that several Brokers have been victimized in Southern cities.

The accused called at the Exchange Office of Mr. JAMES, in Wall-street, and offered for sale a package of these certificates; but Mr. JAMES, suspecting something wrong, left the party until he could ascertain their par value. Upon the return of the Broker, the holder of the certificates was missing. Meanwhile, Gen. WARD, United States Consul at Panama, accompanied by several Texan gentlemen, happened to visit the office of Mr. JAMES, and while they were scrutinizing the certificates the applicant came back to close his bargain. The aggregate amount of those he offered to sell was about $8,000, for which he agreed to take $1,200, and would have been paid this amount by Mr. JAMES had not the Consul and his friends pronounced them a gross forgery. When accused, the prisoner declared that he met a man in Broadway, who boarded at the Metropolitan Hotel, and desired him to negotiate the certificates and meet him at the Hotel in the evening.

The prisoner was brought before the Magistrate at the Halls of Justice, but he refused to give his name or say anything concerning his place of residence or business. He had previously given the name of C. A. KENNE, and under that cognomen the Justice committed him. The affidavits of Mr. JAMES and Gen. WARD were taken.

Supposed Bank Robbery.

A robbery of $23,000 has been discovered in the Merchants' Bank of this City. The deficit was first observed on the 2d instant, but the officers of the Bank preferred to institute inquiries before making the matter public. On Tuesday week, the Paying Teller discovered that the cash was missing, but it was at first supposed that the gold was delivered by mistake when the Bank was making up its exchanges. A sufficient time was allowed for examination, and it is finally believed that the amount was stolen, though by whom is not known. None of the persons attached to the Bank are suspected. The vault door is exposed to the street, and it is supposed that the money was abstracted while the porter was busy in taking out large amounts for other Banks,—the inner door of the vault having been left ajar. The gold was in five bags, $5,000 in each. The Bank offers a reward of $3,000 for the recovery of the money.

Dr. Adams' Church—Sale of Pews.

Last evening the pews in the Church of Dr. ADAMS, situate on Madison-square, were disposed of at public sale, by MURRAY HOFFMAN, Esq. The premiums offered ranged at from two and a half to thirty per cent. on the assessed valuation.

Those not sold at a premium were taken at par. The bidding was spirited, and a large attendance was present. The rated value of the six choice pews was $1,300. A like number was assessed at $1,250; eight at $1,200; eight at $1,100, and over; ten at $1,000; twenty from $900 to $975. The remainder graduated through the scale of prices, at a ratio of from $25 to $50 down to $10, which was the lowest figure of the assessment.

Board of Education—Election of President.

The new Board of Education was organized last evening. The election of President was the main feature of the proceedings. On the third ballot, WM. H. NEILSON, Esq., was chosen. Mr. Neilson received 24 votes, Mr. Jones 11, and Mr. Bradlee 9.

The President briefly addressed the Board, thanking the members for the high honor conferred in having chosen him as their presiding officer. He should endeavor, he said, to preside over the deliberations impartially, and with a single desire to advance the great cause of public instruction. The departments confided to the care of the Board were, he was happy to state, in a flourishing condition. The Schools were numerous, well attended, and under good management and instruction; not as formerly were they attended exclusively by the children of the indigent, but the children of the wealthy gather knowledge from the same fountain. He hoped solid and useful information would be furnished the pupils, and their minds not pampered with unsubstantial and luxurious accomplishments. At the close of the past year the Board, he said, found themselves deficient in funds to meet the claims against them. The cause of that deficiency he would not enter upon, but he would recommend that during the year upon which they had entered, the Board would keep constantly before its eyes the amount applicable to every object set forth in the annual estimate, and that in no case a trespass be permitted of one object upon another. This would confine the expenditure within the estimate of the year. In conclusion, he hoped each member would bear in mind the oath they had taken, and the individual responsibilities of their position as members of the Board.

On motion, the Board proceeded to the election of a Clerk for the year.

On the first ballot, ALBERT GILBERT, Esq., the very efficient Clerk, was reelected.

The following were the standing Committees elected:

Executive Committee on the Free Academy—G. L. Bradlee, A. D. Wilson, R. W. Townsend, A. V. Williams, A. S. Jones, G. B. Fellows, R. M. Fowler.

Executive Committee on Normal Schools—Wm. Hibbard, John Davenport, R. R. Winthrop, A. H. Green, D. W. C. McCloskey, Wm. H. Neilson, Wm. C. Lee.

Executive Committee on Evening Schools—Wm. James, Jr., H. P. West, A. J. Ferry, J. C. Rutherford, J. B. Johnson, John DeLamater, Florence McCarthy.

Committee on Finance—C. H. Smith, Isaac Phillips, Jedediah Miller, Wm. Sinclair, James W. Underhill.

The Finance Committee submitted the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That $40,000 be and the same are hereby appropriated for the support of the Ward Schools.

Resolved, That the Comptroller of the City be and he is hereby requested to authorize the City Chamberlain to place in the City Treasury the sum of $75,000 subject to the drafts of the Board of Education, on and after the 15th of January, 1855.

The Pacific Mail Company's steamer Golden Age arrived at San Francisco on the 14th ult., 11 days 22 hours from Panama, with the mails and passengers that left New-York by the North Star, Nov. 30, all well.

The U. S. Mail steamer North Star arrived in Aspinwall at 6 o'clock P. M. on the 20th ult., 9 days and 4 hours from New-York; sailed again for New-York Jan. 1, 6 o'clock, P. M. The North Star was detained at Aspinwall 48 hours after the arrival of the passengers from the John L. Stephens, in consequence of the prevalence of a severe norther, which rendered the embarkation of the passengers and treasure an impossibility, and made it necessary for the ship to leave the berth at the wharf, and seek safety in the open sea, where she was compelled to remain until Jan. 1, when she returned, and by the aid of boats, the passengers, mails and treasure were taken on board, and the ship proceeded on her homeward voyage. For the first five days of the voyage, experienced strong gales from northeast, accompanied by very heavy sea.

The U. S. M. steamer Falcon, from Havana, with the New-Orleans mails, arrived off the port of Aspinwall on the evening of the 31st ult., but was unable to enter, in consequence of heavy weather, until the afternoon of Jan. 1.

On the morning of the 31st ult., about 6 o'clock P. M., a heavy gale from the northwest sprung up at Aspinwall, which resulted in a great loss of life and property in that port. At the commencement of the gale, the following vessels were alongside the wharf and anchored in the bay, viz.: British Royal Mail steamer Derwent, United States Mail steamer North Star, brig Alvano, ship Flying Cloud, schooner Clinton, and several coasting vessels; it was only by great exertion that any escaped. The steamer Derwent got under way and cleared out to sea shortly after the commencement of the gale. The steamer North Star was compelled to adopt the same course about time afterwards.

The brig Flying Cloud, of New-York, owned by HARBECK & Co., and commanded by Captain MANOON, dragged her anchors, and was thrown on the head of the Bay, where she bilged, and in about time became a total wreck. The captain and crew left the vessel in a boat, which capsized when but a short distance from her, and the captain and seven men perished in the breakers. Mr. RILEY, the mate, and two of the crew succeeded in reaching the shore. All this transpired in sight of those on shore, but the sea would not admit of an attempt to a rescue.

The brig Alvano of New-York, owned by FRANCIS SPIES, dragged her anchors, was thrown on a reef, and then through the splendid wharf of the U. S. Mail Steamship Company, almost destroying the wharf, and making a total wreck of the brig; no lives lost.

The schooner Clinton escaped, and when the North Star left, was lying on the opposite side of the Bay with two feet water in her hold.

A Carthagenia schooner, name unknown, filled and sunk near the wharf of the Railroad Company; there was but one person on board at the time, and he was rescued by a boat from one of the vessels in port.

The time of the completion of the Panama Railroad is no longer a matter of doubt; the rails will all be laid by the middle of this month, and the passengers that leave New-York by the North Star on the 20th inst., will have the pleasure of making the transit from ocean to ocean behind the Iron Horse. The completion of this Road does away with the hardship and danger formerly deemed inseparable to a transit across the Isthmus, and makes the journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast a mere pleasure jaunt.

DIED—Jan. 5, L. B. ADAMS, of debility.

We are indebted to Purser HULL, for the foregoing particulars.

EXTRACTS.

The Late General Herrera.

From the Panama Star, Dec. 20.

General THOMAS HERRERA, whose death has caused such a general gloom in our city, was, when quite a young man, an officer in the Columbian army, and took part in the famous battle of Ayacucho, in Peru, in 1824. When BOLIVAR wished to establish a dictatorship, General HERRERA was one of those who opposed the measure, and, in consequence, was obliged to leave the country. In 1831 he was one of the leaders in reestablishing the Constitutional order. In 1840, he saved the Province of the Isthmus from joining in the revolutionary movement then agitating the rest of the Republic, and, in 1845, he commanded the Constitutional forces that put down the revolution in the Provinces of Cauca and Antioquia. He also filled the post of Governor of this Province, and for many years represented the Provinces of the Isthmus in Congress. In politics he was a Liberal. His age was about fifty. General HERRERA leaves many relations and a large circle of friends to lament his loss in this city, where he was very generally beloved and respected.

Vegetable Ivory.

From the Panama Star, Dec. 20.

We were shown on Saturday a specimen of vegetable ivory found by a gentleman when out hunting, near this city. It is of good color, nearly circular, and larger than a dollar in diameter.

The vegetable ivory abounds on the Isthmus, and throughout the districts of Darien and Chiriqui. In Europe it is extensively used in the manufacture of such small articles of ornament and use as ivory is suited for, and has been found to answer all the purposes.

Progress of the Panama Railroad—Only Three Miles Unfinished.

From the Panama Star, Dec. 20.

A party of gentlemen went on the Summit on Saturday morning, along the Railroad track, and passed the same route that evening. They traveled the entire way, with the exception of about

The Railroad terminus, will, we understand, be at Play-a-Priam for the present, but it is in contemplation to remove it as soon as possible nearer the Bay, to the neighborhood of the western gate, inside the Mission walls, and it will, doubtless, be extended to Jamestown work on the beach, if not to the island of Peyton, as soon as practicable to complete the work thus far; but this latter extension will not be undertaken, we presume, for a length of time.

CALIFORNIA.

News for the Week—Dec. 16.

From the Alta.

A man named ROBERT BAUCH was hung at Sonora, on the 9th, for the crime of murder.

It has been proved by experiment that tobacco of a very superior quality can be raised in some portions of the State.

The rains throughout the State are anxiously awaiting rain.

Mr. GEO. HANLY, from Steubenville, Ohio, was killed by the caving in of a bank of earth while at work on his claim on West Weaver Creek.

A bridge eight hundred and five feet in length across Trinity River at Grass Valley, has just been completed.

A man named JOHN S. STEPHENS, traveling in the vicinity of Marysville, was attacked by two mounted Mexicans and robbed of $4,500 in gold dust.

A rich chimney was struck at Caldwell's Garden on Shaw's Flat, from which $4,000 were taken out in two days, and the claim afterwards sold for $5,000. The purchasers washed out a cent load of dirt which yielded $950.

At the S. W. Tunnel, on Douglas' Flat, the average yield is 20 ounces per day.

The telegraph line between Stockton and Sonora will be completed by the 1st January. Thirty-three miles of wire are already laid.

Hon. W. T. BARBOUR, District Judge in the Tenth District, has been indicted by the grand jury of Yuba County, for an assault with deadly weapons upon the person of C. P. STIDGER.

The steamer New World got snagged in the Sacramento River, about eight miles below Sacramento, on the 10th instant. She sustained considerable damage.

THE CITY.

A man named JOHN CAVANAGH, who was stabbed at the "Nonantum House," on the Mission Road, by WM. BAY, has since died from the effects of the wound.

CHRISTY's Minstrels have made a most successful tour throughout the State.

VERDI's opera of "Ernani" has drawn crowded houses at the Metropolitan.

The shock of an earthquake was felt in the city and vicinity, at 4½ o'clock A. M., on the 11th.

The Fresnel Light for the Farallones, arrived in the ship St. Lucas, from Bordeaux. It is one of the largest in the world.

The San Francisco Blues gave a grand ball at the Metropolitan Theatre on the 11th inst. There were about three thousand persons present.

Mr. NAPIER LOTHIAN, the Leader of the Band at the ball given by the San Francisco Blues, dropped suddenly dead, while conducting the music. His death was occasioned by disease of the heart.

The Opera of "Il Barbiere" was produced at the Metropolitan, on the evening of the 12th, for the benefit of Sig. BANZANI. It gave unequivocal satisfaction.

Mr. and Mrs. STARK and Mr. NEAFIE have been playing at the American, in "Hamlet," "Othello" and "King Lear." They have succeeded in drawing good houses.

The steamer Surprise, from New-York, arrived on the evening of the 12th inst. She is intended for the Rivers trade.

The Russian ship Kamschatka, from Sitka, entered with a cargo of fish, proves to be a privateer, manned with a crew of 120 men, and furnished with ten brass guns. She is a taut looking craft, capable of seriously annoying the French and English merchantmen she may chance to fall in with.

A meeting of the citizens interested in the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad took place at the Musical Hall, on the evening of the 13th. It was numerously attended, and a great deal of interest was manifested. Several excellent speeches were made by prominent citizens. A Committee of twenty-five has been appointed to investigate the practicability of constructing a railroad from San Francisco to the State of Missouri.

A fire broke out on the evening of the 14th, at the corner of Market and First-streets. The Phœnix Mills, consisting of a saw and planing mill, turning establishment and sash and blind factory were entirely destroyed. Loss estimated at $9,300.

Later from the South.

We have dates from Los Angeles to the 7th of December, and San Diego to the 2d, being one week later.

COLORADO CITY.—The San Diego Herald learns from Mr. A. G. P. SUTTON, who went out with the Railroad surveying party last week, that a party of emigrants, with 1,100 head of cattle, arrived at the Colorado a short time since, and have concluded to remain there and form a settlement at the site where a town was recently laid out, near the junction of the Gila and Colorado rivers. The party is from Texas. They are reported to have had a fight with the Yumas, of which tribe they killed thirty.

ALL QUIET AT THE TEJON.—The Californian says: The report from Tejon is that everything is quiet—that the Indians, since the arrest of REDMAN, are satisfied that the laws shall take their course, and have gone to work as if nothing unusual had happened. They have confidence in our laws, and are willing to abide by them.

THE SAN FERNANDO PASS.—We learn from the Californian, that "Mr. G. ALLEN, the Superintendent of Repairs on the road through the Pass of San Fernando, was in town, a day or two since. He would have had the road completed by the end of the present week, had not the rains retarded the progress of the work. A few days, however, will suffice for its final completion. When finished, it will have cost about $6,000, and a first-class road afforded for the increasing travel through the Tulares."

Later from the North.

WRECK OF THE SCHOONER SIERRA NEVADA. The Humboldt Times of the 2d inst. says: "Yesterday, while the steamer Mary Ann was engaged in towing out the schooner Sierra Nevada, SMITH, master, the hawser parted, the schooner went into the breakers and became a wreck. Passengers and crew all saved; cargo and vessel total loss. When the crew were taken off, she was almost three miles below the entrance. The Times of the 9th says: "The schooner was sold on Wednesday at auction—the Sheriff acting as auctioneer—for the benefit of underwriters and owners. The sails, &c., brought $190, chains and anchors $200, hull $40. We learn she was insured for $5,000. The owner lately refused $10,000 for her. She was a fine vessel, and probably the fastest of her tonnage in the Pacific. She it was who made the celebrated run from Canton to San Francisco in thirty-four days. She has frequently made the run hence to San Francisco in twenty-five hours, and was almost as much to be depended upon as the steamers. Our citizens regret her loss, but none so much as her late captain. Our hope is, however, that we shall see him again in as good a one and employed in our trade.

DISCOVERY OF NEW DIGGINGS.—The Crescent City Herald says new and rich diggings have been recently discovered near that place. It says:

"Thus far we can give the following reliable information. The diggings are on a creek running from the Red Wood Ridge, between here and Smith River, and emptying into the latter near White and Williams ferry. Several had been working there the greater part of last Summer, and two more companies went to work about five weeks ago. These latter have been making from ten to twenty dollars per day to a hand; and of the former it is said that one of the party went to San Francisco on the last steamer with eighty ounces of dust. We have it from good authority, that thus far it is ascertained that for the distance of half a mile the creek pays from ten to twenty dollars to the hand. Distance, six miles from Crescent City.

Now, there are a number of other creeks and gulches in the same ridge, and similarly situated with the one here mentioned, and the probability is that gold will be found in all of them. Smith River Creek and Rowdy Creek are on the opposite side of the ridge, have been worked with some success for the last eighteen months.

PARKERSON'S RIVER RUNNING INTO HUMBOLDT BAY.—Messrs. DAILY, BUTLER, HANDY and others have commenced their canal from the river to the Bay. It is believed the canal will take almost the entire stream, and as there is considerable fall along the line, it will become the permanent bed.

WAS ST. PATRICK EVER ON HUMBOLDT BAY?—We are assured by many of our oldest inhabitants, that they have never seen a snake or a toad on Humboldt Bay. Can it be from the climate or from some alkaline substance in the soil, or from a visit and——malediction from St. Patrick?

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

We have dates from Honolulu to the 25th ult., by the Madonna.

ROCKS NOT LAID DOWN ON THE CHARTS.—Capt. NYE, of the American whale ship Mount Vernon, has furnished the following observations:

On my passage from the Bonin Islands to the Japan Sea, in April last, I passed between Pinnacle Island (lat. 29° 44' N., lon. 130° 10' E.,) and Jakancima. This passage has the appearance on the chart of being a safe and easy one, but there are two clusters of pointed and rugged rocks, of some thirty or forty in each, lying about mid-way of the passage, distant one mile from each other, and each cluster about half a mile long. They lay N. E. and S. W., directly in the track of vessels passing in or out. They are from five to forty feet above water, and are not laid down on any charts I have seen. I consider them dangerous rocks, more especially as many vessels will be going to the Japan Sea the coming season, and some may go through that channel. I will venture to say, from my own and others' experience, that but little dependance can be placed in the charts of that part of the Pacific Ocean and Yellow Sea.

NEW SUGAR CROP.—By the last steamer from Kauai a few tons of sugar from the new crop of Lihue Plantation was received by ALDRICH & BISHOP, Agents in Honolulu for the plantation, and by whom the entire crop will be offered for sale as it comes in.

Our samples received are good specimens of the yellow muscovado, of a bright color and good grain, and will find a ready sale in the market. The crop this year will be from 150 to 200 tons, besides the molasses which is of excellent quality.

At Koloa, also, and on Maui, the new crop is being ground, and, with the assistance of the centrifugal separator, will soon be in the market. The amount made this year will be considerable; increasing on the last year's crop on some of the plantations, and yielding about the same on others. But all that will be raised will be but a tithe of what the islands can produce, or for which there is a market at home. Lands now lie idle that would produce both sugar and coffee, but capital and enterprise are wanted to render them productive; and here is a field that can hardly be overworked, and a branch of industry that can scarcely be overdone.

SAILOR'S HOME IN HONOLULU.—Various meetings had been held of the citizens, to take measures for the establishment of a Sailor's Home at the port. A constitution was submitted to and adopted by one of these meetings, and the trustees and office-bearers of the Society were appointed. The Privy Council were petitioned to grant a lot of land for the purposes of the Society, and they passed a resolution granting a lot, provided the sum of $5,000 was raised by subscription.

The lot of ground granted by the above resolution is the most eligibly situated for the purpose of any in Honolulu. It is in the very heart of the city—near the sea, fronting on Merchant-street, near the Post-Office, easy of access from those quarters, and adjoining the Bethel premises. It is confidently expected that the $5,000 will be raised before the 1st January coming; and it is hoped that $10,000 more, necessary to complete the undertaking, will soon be raised. These sums are to be procured by means of subscription.

RESULT OF THE WHALE FISHERY IN THE ARCTIC OCEAN.—The Friend says that just fifty ships visited the Arctic Ocean this season, and that thirty of these have returned without having taken a drop of oil, while several of the remaining twenty took barely enough to keep their binnacle lamps burning. A hard case, truly.

LADIES' FAIR.—The sum of $1,200 was realized at a Ladies' Fair which took place at Honolulu, and was numerously attended.

ARRIVAL OF A FRENCH MAN-OF-WAR.—On the 22d of November, the French frigate Alceste, from Callao, arrived at Honolulu, and anchored outside the port.

CHANGE OF OLD NAMES OF STEAMERS.—The Sea Bird and West Point have become respectively, the Kamehameha and the Kalama. The King and Queen of the Islands were "graciously pleased" to allow the vessels to bear their own royal names.

SAN FRANCISCO ACTORS AT HONOLULU.—Mrs. MOULTON was to take her benefit at the theatre "Varieties" on the 23d of November. Miss JOSEPHINE was dancing nightly.

NATIONAL HOLIDAY.—The national holiday of the 28th of November was to be held as usual. A review of the military was to take place on Waikiki Plains, and in the evening a reception and ball would be given at the Palace.

Suspected Filibusterism.

From the Placer Times, December 16.

HONOLULU, Nov. 14, 1854.

EDITOR TIMES AND TRANSCRIPT: Since my last, there have been stirring times here, owing to the arrival of two or three vessels from San Francisco, on which came an aggregate of about one hundred passengers. So much has been said of filibustering, that it requires but slight causes to create alarm with the Government, and among the native and anti-American population. Almost every person coming at this time from California, is looked upon as an expeditionist of the insurrectionary class, and their movements are closely watched. The arrival of CHRIS. LILLY and a few others of like character, very recently, has considerably augmented the fears of these people, and an outbreak is daily looked for by them.

Last Thursday night the Governor of this Island secretly ordered out the troops, and they have been ever since quartered within the walls of his residence on active service. Each of the chiefs have their retinues and followers, well armed, in close duty on their respective premises, and every precaution is taken against the attack. The King's palace is also well guarded, and an order was dispatched on Monday last, by the steamers Sea Bird and West Point, demanding the immediate presence of the full military force from the Islands of Maui, Hawaii and Kauai. In addition to this, the aid of the United States, French and English war vessels was asked for by the King and Cabinet on the same day, to act in protecting the Government. It is almost needless for me to say that all this preparation is really without cause. So far as I am able to ascertain, no outbreak is in contemplation by our countrymen.

Mr. LILLY came here with the intention of establishing a public house, and without a thought of becoming a filibuster. He had been unable to procure a location suitable to his requirements, and will leave to-morrow in the schooner C. E. Foote, for San Francisco.

I send you a copy of Capt. DORNIN's letter, in reply to the request of this Government upon Mr. GREGG; for the aid of the United States war vessels in the harbor:

REPLY TO THE HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT CALLING FOR ASSISTANCE FROM UNITED STATES NAVAL FORCES IN HAWAIIAN WATERS.

UNITED STATES SHIP PORTSMOUTH, HONOLULU, Nov. 13, 1854.

To Hon. D. L. Gregg, United States Commissioner to Hawaiian Kingdom:

SIR: I have received yours of the 13th inst., enclosing a communication from the Department of Foreign Affairs, directed to you, in reference to certain reports of the arrival of parties here from San Francisco, whose design is supposed to disturb the public peace and tranquillity, and asking the co[illegible]ration of the United States naval forces now here in protecting persons and property.

I have to request that you will communicate to the Hawaiian authorities my readiness to assist at all times in the maintenance of public order, and the protection of public and private property, where placed in jeopardy by persons who have no legal right to interfere with or participate in the affairs of the Hawaiian Government. [illegible] the same time I feel assured that but a very inconsiderable number of American citizens, if any, now here, contemplate anything offensive to the peace and order of this community. The immense amount of American property, subject and other—the great preponderance of American residents and their past history, forbid the idea that all these interests can or will be seriously disturbed by American citizens. I regard such an impression as a reflection on the character of our countrymen, and not so all consistent with the high position they have ever sustained here.

We shall land, in the event of any occasion requiring the aid of our forces, at least 300 men, fully armed, and supported by two field pieces.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

THOS. A. DORNIN, Commander U. S. N.

There are about nine hundred American residents and sojourners now on the Island, a force strong enough, if armed, to take the place, yet a very few can be found who are not indignantly upon the idea of coercion to hasten annexation. In fact, such an attempt, if generally believed, would most assuredly retard its consummation—it might altogether prevent its desirable result. Annexation, it is confidently believed, will take place, (so far as this Government and the United States Commissioners can effect it,) in less than a month from this date. The treaty only requires the final signatures of the contracting parties.

These will, doubtless, be given upon the return to Court of Prince ALEXANDER, the heir apparent to the throne, who is also a member of the Privy Council. He is at present at Waunea, on the island of Hawaii. By the steamer Sea Bird, on her trip of the 6th inst., a special messenger was dispatched for him by order of the King. He did not come, however, but returned answer that he would do so by the first opportunity thereafter. It is likely that he will be here on the arrival back of the Sea Bird from her present trip—that is, on Saturday next, 18th inst. It may then not require even a week to conclude the matter.

The non-arrival of Prince ALEXANDER in obedience to the command, gave rise to much speculation. Some saw in it his determination to reject all proposals from the United States Government; others believed that he was merely playing a diplomatic game to obtain better terms from the United States; and a few charged him with holding off in anticipation of the King's sudden decease during an attack of indisposition his Majesty is subject to, in order that he may ascend to the throne, and so inherit the large annuity which the treaty of annexation guarantees to the King. Those who have a right to know better what his real intentions are, say that his only object in keeping away in so important a time is, that he desires that everything shall be arranged in his absence, and that nothing will be left for him but the simple signing of the document.

This course will relieve him from the importunities of certain foreign officials here, who take every opportunity to obtrude themselves upon him, and who continually labor to poison his mind against the Government at Washington. In his letter to Judge LEE, received on Sunday last, he hinted thus, and wished the Judge to meet him at Lahaina before his return hither, in order that he might consult with his Honor upon the course of action he had best pursue. Judge LEE is a warm and energetic advocate of annexation, and possesses more of ALEXANDER's confidence than any man on the island. This will give a key as regards the course he is most likely to follow on his return. Agreeably to his Highness' request, Judge LEE left on Monday for Lahaina, where he will also preside at the session of the Supreme Court holden there this week, and return with the Prince on Saturday.

In order that you may form an estimate of the probability of speedy annexation, I will give you the names of the prominent members of the Privy Council who favor it.

JOHN YOUNG, (high native chief,) Premier and Minister of the Interior; R. C. WYLLIE, Minister of Foreign Relations; ELISHA ALLEN, Minister of Finance; Rev. R. ARMSTRONG, Minister of Public Instruction; WILLIAM L. LEE, Chief Justice Supreme Court; Judge ANDREWS, Associate Justice Supreme Court, and A. B. BATES, Law Adviser to the Crown.

The above are the prominent members, as I before stated, that are warmly in favor, whose names I have been given. There are others less distinguished, but quite as influential, whose names I am unable to give. Those put down as lukewarm, or opposed, are Prince LOT, brother of ALEXANDER; and LOT PAKE, the highest chief on the Island. These are not in themselves strong against annexation, but rather imbibe their feeling in opposition from their relation to ALEXANDER and regard for his hopes, and will not oppose should he consent to the terms of the treaty.

The treaty may be diplomatically concluded, even with their opposition, and without ALEXANDER's signature, but every effort will be made to procure their consent. On Monday the Privy Council met, but adjourned without doing anything, in consequence of Prince ALEXANDER's absence. Next Monday they meet again, when it is probable some definite action will be taken. I incline to the belief that the treaty will be favorably concluded.

I see that one of your morning cotemporaries lately published a synopsis of the substance of the treaty of annexation, so far as respects the amount to be paid by the United States to the King and others, which was almost entirely in error. The terms are that $300,000 in gross is to be paid to the King and others, agreeably as the King and Privy Council shall determine. In the case of Prince ALEXANDER only does the rule of succession come in. With him it is stipulated that on the death of the King he shall inherit the annuity of his Majesty, his own as heir apparent ceasing. But with all others included in the grants, death ends the payment. By this agreement, taking the average of human life, the aggregate cost to our country cannot exceed $2,500,000. A cheap purchase, indeed, for so desirable a possession as these islands must prove to be for our country.

In giving these annuities to be paid, I omitted to state that the present value of the various properties and claims belonging to the Government, which our country will gain by the present treaty, amount to a little over $2,000,000. Of course their value will be largely augmented by annexation.

Let me here pay tribute to the masterly diplomacy and energetic labors of our Commissioner, Hon. DAVID L. GREGG. Beloved by his own countrymen upon the islands, and respected by foreigners and natives, he has done wonders in his official capacity towards giving this group to the United States. His plain, unostentatious manners, his simple republican habits and sterling worth, have won for him the approbation of all, and well merit the fostering care of the powers that be. No man could have been better selected for the post. I am led into these remarks because of the invidious attacks made against him by a small clique here, who love anarchy, riot and money rather than their country's welfare.

By the arrival of the brig Noble, Captain ROBERTSON, last Saturday, direct from Petropolovski, we have received more definite and impartial news from there of the recent action between the Russians and allied forces. I send you the subjoined extract from a letter written by a young American gentleman, resident merchant there, which has been published in the Polynesian extra of yesterday. It gives quite a different version of the affair. Capt. ROBERTSON witnessed the action, and describes it as the weakest attack on the part of the allies that could have been made. Had they continued the fight and fought as well as they began, they might easily have taken the place.

Capt. ROBERTSON further states that the report that is published in the San Francisco papers, stating that it was an American pilot that pointed out the best place of attack to the allied forces, is incorrect. It was either a German or an Irishman. This correction is due, as former accounts made it appear that the American pilot mentioned, led the allied forces designedly into the best fortified places. The truth is, that the fortifications encountered there had been erected without the knowledge of the pilot that took them there.

In my last, I stated that I had read a copy of the original survey of physicians, recently held here on H. B. M. Consul-General WM. MILLER. I have since obtained a correct copy of the same, which I herewith enclose. This will prevent or set aside any doubts about the matter.

(COPY.)

HONOLULU, Oct. 17, 1854.

We, the undersigned, physicians, &c., having this day met in consultation to inquire into the state of health of H. B. M.'s Consul-General, WM. MILLER, desire to make the following report:

That the Consul-General has lately been suffering from reiterated alarming attacks of congestion of the brain, threatening apoplexy; that these attacks, as well as preceding instances of giddiness, pain in the head and other symptoms, were invariably brought on and aggravated by undue excitement or application of the mind, and that the last most alarming attack of congestion was brought on by protracted mental excitement growing out of his official duties.

We, therefore, from the foregoing causes, considering that entire relief from mental labor is a condition sine qua non for the restoration of his health, have come to the unanimous conclusion that the Consul-General should be advised to detach himself temporarily from the duties of his official station for the period of one year, and recommended to take a sea voyage as soon as practicable, and warned to avoid all causes which may tend to produce mental or physical excitement.

We may also state that a cataract of the right eye, of some standing—the capacity of which has been lately increasing—conjoined with a dimness of vision of the left, threatening cataract, renders our recommendation more positive.

Signed, John Grave, Acting Surgeon H. M. ship Tricomalee; Wm. Dillon, Assistant Surgeon H. M. ship Tricomalee; John White, Assistant Surgeon H. M. ship Tricomalee; R. Beasgrave, Ch. M. D. L'Artemise; J. Reinkenhof, United States sloop-of-war Portsmouth; S. P. Ford, M. D.; G. Lathrop, M. D.; W. Hildebrand, M. D.

Aside from the excitement produced in fear of filibusters, and the receipt of more authentic accounts of the action at Petropaulovski, the town is singularly quiet.

Mr. HIGGINSBOTHAM, who has recently purchased the Wailua Falls estate, Hanalei, is preparing to plant about fifty acres of cotton, and also intends to cultivate rice and the vine. Three twenty-ox teams of cattle were recently sent on their way to his estate, to break ground for the cotton.

PETROPAULOVSKI.

The Petropaulovski Pilot.

The Polynesian, having made a statement to the effect that it was probable that the pilot who conducted the Allied forces at Petropaulovski to the place of landing was guilty of misrepresentations, if not of treachery, and that he was an American, makes the following correction in its issue of the 18th ult.:

We have been requested to say, and we do it upon the authority of a gentleman who was there at the time, so far as the American is concerned in the above quotation, it is entirely incorrect. The two men that acted as pilots for the forces on shore were a German and an Irishman—runaway sailors from whaleships, who had been for some time at Petropaulovski, but had latterly been absent from that place, cutting wood at a point somewhat distant. While there, they had been employed by the Governor, and assisted in building the batteries and mounting the guns. But after they had left, additional guns had been received, and a battery erected of which they were ignorant; and it was upon this very battery that they led the Allied forces, without knowing of its existence, and which arrested their march upon the fort. So it would appear it was ignorance and not treachery in the guides that led to the disaster.

We further learn from the same authority, that an additional number of heavy guns have been sent for, and that 5,000 men were to be added to the garrison at Petropaulovski for defence. This, with the naturally strong position of that port, will render it a formidable point to attack from sea, and will require a very strong force to subdue.

THE MARQUESAS ISLANDS.

TRAGICAL SCENES—SPIRIT RAPPINGS.—A correspondent of the Friend writing from Omoa, Fatuhiva, Aug. 21, gives the following account of a tragical occurrence at the Marquesas: Last September, the English whaling bark Caroline, of London, Capt. WILLIS, touched at Resolution Bay, and left two sick men—a white man and a colored one. They were placed under the protection of PANAU, the Chief of Bay, Capt. WILLIS giving him $60 to defray expenses. After the departure of the vessel, PANAU ordered some of his natives to take the colored man out to sea and throw him overboard. He was taken out, cut to pieces, and then thrown overboard. The white man was shut up in a house and starved to death. PANAU stood sentry over him, and threatened to shoot a friendly Spaniard for attempting to supply the sick man with food. After his death, the Spaniard commenced to dig a grave. PANAU saw him at work, and asked him what he was doing. The Spaniard told him he was digging a grave for a white man. "What, you are going to bury a white man—a dog, anything is good enough for a dog—there, take him and throw him among the bushes, and don't let me see you attempt to bury him." * * * *

I will astonish the advocates of the doctrine of spiritual rappers, to hear that it is an old worn out Marquesan idea. Extremes meet. The lowest round in the ladder and the highest one are nearer each other than we are inclined to believe.

BOGOTA.

Defeat of the Revolutionists—Seven Hundred Men Killed—Death of Herrera—Capture of Melo.

From the Panama Star, Dec. 28.

By the West India Mail we have received further intelligence from Bogota, to the 8th, and from Carthagena to the 22d inst. An official letter, addressed to the Governor of this Province, gives more full details of the victory of the Constitutional party, and of the death of Gen. HERRERA.

The final engagement between the two armies, which ended the revolution, took place in the Plaza of San Francisco, where the Dictator MELO was captured. The Constitutional party consisted of 10,000 men, and their loss is calculated at 300, besides Generals HERRERA and CAMILO MENDOZA, Commanders D. C. CARO, and FR. OLARTE, and Ensigns URUCHARRO and NAVARS. The revolutionary party lost 400 men, and among those who were taken prisoners are MELO, CONSUEGRA, BERINAS, ACEVEDO, JIMINES, CONDERA ORCANES, and GACHARNA.

The Supreme Court had ordered President OBANDO to be placed under arrest; he was imprisoned in the house of Monseñor BARILLI.

From a letter published in the Panamena, we learn that the final engagements between the Constitutionalists and the Revolutionists lasted two days, in which the former were successful. More than 2,000 of MELO's party have been taken prisoners.

The late lamented General HERRERA was shot in the groin on the morning of the 4th inst., at 6½ o'clock, and expired at 2 o'clock on the morning of the following day. His remains were accompanied to the grave by upwards of 13,000 people.

Official Bulletin—Complete Destruction of the Forces of the Insurrectionists and Re-establishment of the National Government at Bogota.

From the Aspinwall Courier, Dec. 30.

It is 2 o'clock of the morning of the 14th of December, and the Provincial Government have just received, by post, the following important communications, here given in full:

NO. 151—REPUBLIC OF NEW-GRANADA—COMANDANCIA DE ARMAS OF THE PROVINCE OF MARIQUITA, MONDAY, DEC. 7, 1854:

To the Governor of the Province of Carthagena:

I have the inexplicable satisfaction of remitting to you a copy of the official bulletin I have just received, which informs us of the triumphal entrance of the Constitutional army into the Capital of the Republic, and the total destruction of the insurrectionists.

In a separate private letter I am informed that MELO, CONSUEGRA, OSERGUIN, GONDORA, and several of their subordinate officers, were prisoners; and that ORANDO, CASTRO and others had secreted themselves, but would be found. Vive la Constitucion!

DIEGO A. VIANA.

REPUBLIC OF NEW-GRANADA,
HEAD-QUARTERS IN BODAYA, Dec. 3, 1854.

To the Secretary of State, from the War Department:

To-day has terminated the campaign. All the rebels, including their leader, MELO, have surrendered, after having made an obstinate resistance.

As soon as possible I shall give you a detailed account of the operations that have been executed.

You will please present my congratulations to the citizen Vice President in charge of the Executive power. This is a great triumph; the Granadians have shown that they have the force necessary to sustain their sovereignty and to punish those who attempt against it.

Accept the sentiments of respect with which I am your very attentive and obedient servant.

PEDRO ALCANTARA HERRAN.

REPUBLIC OF NEW-GRANADA—SECRETARY OF STATE TO THE GOVERNMENT OFFICE—CIRCULAR.

BOGOTA, Dec. 5, 1854.

To the Governor of the Province of ——

Yesterday afternoon the reunited forces of the North and South took the Capital of the Republic, after a combat of two days, in which the insurrectionists showed an obstacy belonging only to filibusters, deprived of all hope—their resistance could have no other object than that of doing evil. MELO and many of his principal officers are prisoners, some others are dead, and it is to be hoped that the balance, who have secreted themselves, will be apprehended.

The Constitutional Army has had few deaths, but among them we have to lament the worthy General HERRERA, and the Chief DIEGO CARO, and FRANCISCO OLARTE. General CAMILO MENDOZA was mortally wounded.

By the next mail all the particulars of the triumph of the Constitutional Armies will be communicated to you.

I am your obedient servant, PASTOR OSPINA.

True copy. HONDA, Dec. 7, 1854. VIANA.

Viva la Republica!

Viva la Constitucion!

In addition to the above, we have received a proclamation of the Governor of Carthagena, and a publication of a number of friends of the Constitution.

The Governor of Carthagena deeply laments the death of General HERRERA, and eulogizes him as a most brave, generous and self-sacrificing patriot, &c., &c. He also declares the triumph of the Government to be complete, and expresses the opinion that the condition of the Republic is much better than it was when MELO declared the dictatorship. He exhorts his countrymen to forget all the past, that the differences and wrongs of partisan strife, &c., may be buried forever.

The other publication informs us, by an official communication, that JOSE ANGEL PORRAS, MAURICIO VERGEL, and others raised a revolutionary movement in Chinca, that their number was increased from Sincelejo, and that Commandante PATRON, of Sincelejo, marched against them, and in less than twenty-four hours dispersed their forces and defeated their plans.

Revolt in the Army—Money Seized at the Mint—Two Rebels Shot.

The Lima journals state that in Poland, on the 12th of November, General ACHA, at the head of the 5th [illegible] Regiment, declared against the President, (BELZU) the latter received news of the event [illegible] between Chuquisaca and Oruro, but was [illegible] the act of setting out to put it down, when he heard that the 1st Regiment had also declared against him in Paris. Under these circumstances, he determined to consummate his march to Oruro with two battalions and the 60 men composing his escort. On the approach of BELZU, the forces retired by way of Cochabamba, to join those under General GONZALO LAZEA, who, to the number of 200, (infantry,) had also pronounced against the President.

The battalion of Chuquisaca, who were on the march from Ranan to Oruro, attempted to make a similar demonstration, when they had heart of the action of the Commanders, but General CERDOVA, their commander, (a son-in-law of BELZU) immediately checked the design, and shot two officers and a number of sergeants. BELZU remained at Oruro to await the issue of events.

General ACHA had seized all the money in the mint at Potosi and of the bank, which at least amounts to $400,000; he likewise obtained possession of a large and valuable supply of munitions of war, that was on its way from Cobije to Oruro.

Destructive Fire at Valparaiso—Gold Discoveries by Americans—Great Bustle in Chili—Defeat of the Government Forces.

A destructive fire broke out at Valparaiso on the morning of the 23d ult., in front of the Custom-House. Ten buildings were destroyed and one life lost. The loss is estimated at $150,000. Only one of the sufferers was insured. The valuable documents of the Custom-House were saved. Had it not been for the active exertions of the Fire Companies, the destruction of property would have been far greater. The vessels of war in port sent detachments of men on shore, who rendered efficient service.

The Correo del Sur says that rich gold washings have been discovered by a party of five Americans in the Cordillera of Autaco, in the province of Arauco. They procured a large quantity, and others who followed after were also very successful. A party of twenty-five Americans, well armed and provided with the necessary tools, provisions, &c., were preparing to start for the vicinity.

The English vessels of war Dido and Rattlesnake, and the United States frigate St. Lawrence, were the only vessels of war in port.

On the 1st a battle was fought at Arequipa, between the forces under Don DOMINGO ELIAS and the Government troops under General MORAN. The combat was a fierce one, lasting fourteen hours, and resulted in the complete overthrow of the Government forces. General MORAN was taken prisoner, tried by court-martial, and shot. General VIVANCO was severely wounded, and had returned to Lima.

The Herald of the 26th of September, says in reference to the rumored discovery of gold at Essendon:

This report, like many other auriferous ones, turns out to be all humbug. Whether some adventurous publican has 'peppered' the wayside, or whether some bacchanalian has given way to some inward fit of generosity, we know not; but one thing is certain, that these diggings turn out all moonshine. The whole digging space consists of the mere side bank of the road, and here adventurous new chums might be seen all yesterday hard at work with table knife and fork. We were shown some specimens weighing about 1 dwt., but as to whether they were really procured from these diggings, we do not know. We also met on going, and overtook on returning, hordes of misled unfortunates. We therefore in all sincerity warn our readers against the Essendon diggings. Another informant states that there were yesterday about three hundred persons washing the soil at a creek about a mile and a half beyond Essendon, and all getting more than wages, and finding gold wherever they worked. One person had four ounces of gold, among which was a nugget of two ounces weight."

Review of the Market.

From the San Francisco Shipping List, Dec. 13.

The week which has elapsed since the sailing of the last steamer has been one of very general inactivity in business circles. Everything has been dull, and the aggregate of sales has up not a small figure. The demand from the interior continues very light, and the prospects of improvement are more distant than they appeared a few weeks since. In fact it is generally conceded that we may now look forward to very quiet times for a considerable time to come.

Since our last, a number of vessels, many of them clippers, have reached this port from the settlements to our stock of general merchandise have been large. But these goods reached us a month ago, all would have been selling and hearty; but as it is, the effect has been rather to depress than stimulate the market, and in the absence of purchasers, the bulk of the surplus are going into store. A considerable portion of the merchandise coming to hand, was purchased previous to arrival, and now held for sale; but although holders are [illegible]

Money is exceedingly scarce. The number of borrowers on the street is increasing every day, and it is generally admitted that the demand will be the fiercest at the close of the year 1854, already so prolific in such events. The interior merchants have to borrow, and in the course of remittances the bankers city have to be pinched to meet their engagements. The manufactory coming with unprecedented force upon the domestic union merchants, who having sold large quantities of goods, both from store and to arrive, are now unable to remit the amounts due to their principals in the East. Bankers' rates still remain at 2 [illegible] per

THE MILITARY CONVENTION.

SECOND DAY.

The Convention of Military Association, under the auspices of Company F of the State Guard, left the Astor House yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and first visited the Mayor, His Honor the Mayor at the Governor's room, City Hall. The Mayor acknowledged his a city brief address the issue of their visit, and expressed the hope that during their proposed temporary sojourn the Association would be able to visit the various institutions of the City. The uniform Militia of the State he regarded as a most important adjunct in enforcing law.

Brigadier-General BENEDICT, in behalf of the Association, returned thanks for the warm reception tendered them, after which a brief interchange of congratulation followed, when the Company withdrew.

The members of the Association next proceeded to Chinese Hall, (Astor-place,) to meet in convention agreeably to adjournment of the day previous.

Brigadier-General S. P. BENEDICT, President, called the Association to order.

ADDRESS BY GENERAL SCROGGS.

After the transaction of some unimportant business by the Convention, the President announced the annual address by Brigadier-General GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS SCROGGS. The address was lengthy, but listened to throughout with marked attention and frequent interruptions of applause.

The motion began with briefly stating the object for which the Association was formed, which he declared was to foster, cherish and perfect a complete and effective military system throughout the State. The Association, he said, comprised officers of every grade in Militia—embracing among them many of the first men of the State—leaders in the learned professions, all united in effort for the accomplishment of an object which they deemed eminently conducive to the highest public good, conducive to the proper guardianship of the lives and property of every citizen.

After alluding to the recent changes effected in the Militia code, which he thought a most auspicious advance on the previous systems, though yet susceptible of amendment, the subject of paying militia officers and soldiers according to the services rendered was discussed upon at length. Order and discipline he regarded in a militia company as vital in the outset. To have such order and discipline rendered permanent and efficacious, there should be, he alleged, few changes in the company. To effect this it was necessary there should be some inducement to the members of the companies to continue their organizations. This, he said, could only be done by their being properly paid for their labor. The commutation tax, under the present law, he declared was inadequate, and two-thirds only of that amount ever could be got at. He suggested that a radical change was, therefore, needed in this respect; that a per diem allowance should be granted, and that to raise the requisite tax no property should be exempt from seizure. Furthermore, it was not right that the poor man should be required to pay an equal amount with the rich man.

Some remarks were made upon the quality of arms furnished the militia. Instead of old and inefficient muskets as at present, he hoped the time would come when none but the best should be supplied. The importance of frequent encampments, and the strictest discipline, was strongly enforced.

The orator, in the continuation of his remarks, spoke of volunteer companies, under what he deemed national characteristics, other than American, which he deemed were becoming altogether too common and too numerous.

The importance and necessity of a well organized and disciplined militia must be admitted by all. The want of it has often been sadly experienced, which is attested by many melancholy proofs in the history of our country.

All things are equal. Believing as I do, I do not hesitate to assert that there is not a native born American living who by word and deed would not show himself to be equal, if not superior, in moral and physical courage to any other of the sons of earth; and that an army composed of such, with a reasonable amount of discipline, against their numbers, and even some odds, of any troops in the world, would be invincible. In expressing myself so partially regarding my countrymen, I by no means intend to speak disparagingly regarding others, especially the naturalized citizens here. I know there are amongst those many who here by choice made this the land of their adoption, and who in its defence and maintenance and defence, would speak and act worthy of any native born, and if I should betray a preference for the one over the other, it is natural and becoming, and I do not hesitate to avow it,—not that I think less of the one, but of the other more. In order, however, to give efficiency to the courage of individuals designed to act in a body, mutual confidence, a common interest and unity must pervade the mass. Then, like chain lightning, though it appears stretched out in (at) length—when it strikes a blow, it falls with the energy of the arm and the mind of the whole. To attain this, organization and discipline, strict stern discipline, are necessary. But it is not reasonable to expect that men will voluntarily leave their daily avocations, many of which are necessarily pursued for a livelihood, whilst others are sources of health and enjoyment, to submit to the discipline of a soldier, and pay the attending expenses too.

An organization simply of the militia may be perfected by the paid official of the State connected with it, attended with but little, if any, expense to those included in it. But to the end that they may be disciplined too, there must be some means devised whereby all expenses attending that shall be defrayed otherwise than out of the pockets of those engaged in the service. * * *

It has for some time been common in this country to form volunteer companies under national characteristics other than ours; uniforming them after the style and color peculiar to the nation their numbers represent, and calling them by foreign names. Thus we have Irish Greens, French Fusiliers, German (battalions) Jagers, Swiss Guards, Highlanders; and some of them even carry their own banners, instead of the American flag. Indeed, a stranger to this custom might very readily suppose that detachments of various foreign troops were quartered among us, and that they were invited to join in our parades and reviews, to increase the grandeur and display of such occasions. Now, this practice, when viewed in its true and proper light, cannot be commended by any one, but must be disapproved of by all, and should at once be discontinued.

Naturalized foreigners are supposed to have renounced all allegiance to the government to which they previously owed it, in substance as well as form; and perhaps they cannot, in any other way, so palpably identify themselves with the country of their adoption, than by bearing its arms, and voluntarily engaging to perform services which are intended to prepare those who engage in them to participate in this most direct antagonism of one Government to another. And so far as this is done by the naturalized, as an American citizen, it is praiseworthy and highly commendable. But if it be done in such a manner, as to indicate that predilections are cherished for another coat or colors, than for our own true blue, and stars and stripes; if, while he is the citizen of this, he loves to appear as the soldier of another country; if, notwithstanding the solemn oath of allegiance, he herein avails himself of a temporary renouncement of it, it is not admissible and should not be tolerated. There is nothing to condemn in different styles or colors of uniforms, and I do not wish to be understood as disapproving of such by any means; but everything is and about them, in name and in feeling, should be American.

This is a land of which people of all nations may become citizens—a country which all can love; and a government established for the individual as well as the general welfare of all who come within its pale. While those who do not enjoy the preeminence of being "native born and to the manor born" may love and admire the heroes, statesmen and patriots, of their fatherland, here are heroes, statesmen, and patriots, whom the people of all lands can love and admire. Of which, there is one at least, who, in the language of another, was no exotic; one who was emphatically a citizen of the world—and the friend of mankind; one who, in every thing that makes a man essentially good and great, never has had an equal; one whom to admire, reverence and love, it needs no naturalization; and one whose name is on the lips of the patriot, is like the touch of a live coal from the altar on the lips of the Cherubim. Every man must love and rejoice to be a citizen of the land of Washington.

What part in the great tragedy in the East, this nation may be called upon to perform, is sealed up in the dark arcana of the future. Whether amid its early and extreme, a part has been assigned us, by the Great Measurer of all things, in the mass of this large drama, time only can reveal. That such may not be our lot, must be the devout wish of every man. But if it be so, let us look to it, that we be overcomers, we enter and depart, a war of no inferior magnitude.

There is no way by which a people can so effectually secure themselves against the calamities of of war, than to be always well prepared for it. This not only prevents the unfriendly and insolent from giving occasions for hostilities, but gives to the people themselves that confidence in their ability to enforce their rights and redress their wrongs, which prevents hasty pusillanimous, as to reasoning occasions for hostile demonstrations, and allows, without a consciousness of dignity, of ample time for explanations or apologies. And as standing armies are properly odious in the eyes of a free people, the most efficacious manner of doing this is to maintain such institutions and policy as will prepare freemen to depend directly on themselves to act in the offensive or defensive against those who dare to assail them, or intrude upon their country's peace; and there is no way in which this can be done so well, as by organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia.

A vote of thanks was passed to General SCROGGS for his address, and after a somewhat protracted discussion it was resolved that 2,500 copies of the same be printed and published with the proceedings of the Convention.

Col. CLARENCE SEWARD, of Auburn, Chairman of the Committee appointed at the previous Session to report upon a badge or insignia to be worn by the members of the Association, as a mark of designation, reported the following as the emblem deemed most appropriate: A piece of ribbon of alternate white and red, one half inch in width, between two narrow stripes of embossed gold, and dependant from this ribbon to be a fire pointed star three-fourths of an inch in diameter, with a convex centre, upon one side of which centre shall be engraved the Coat of Arms of the State of New-York, an eagle resting on a globe, and upon the reverse side the letters, N. Y. S. M. A., 1853, and the name of the owner.

On motion the badge was adopted, and the Corresponding Secretary instructed to give the necessary orders for their manufacture and furnish them to the members.

In conformity with a resolution offered by Col. MEAD, a Committee of One from each Militia District was appointed, to take the necessary measures to carry out the suggestions contained in the address of Brigadier-General SCROGGS.

Gen. SPICER moved that Brigadier-General WM. T. MORRIS be admitted as an honorary member of the Association. He was so admitted.

Brigadier-General TYLER offered a resolution, which was unanimously passed, that an obituary notice be prepared, accompanied with appropriate resolutions and a brief biographical sketch of Adjutant-General TEMPLE, deceased, to be inserted in the published proceedings of the Convention.

The Convention went into ballot for its officers for the ensuing year. The following were chosen:

President—Brigadier-General RANDALL.

Vice-Presidents—Brigadier-General Spicer; Major-General Brown; Major-General Cooper; Brigadier-General Gray.

Treasurer—Col. H. S. Fairchild.

Corresponding Secretary—Col. J. N. Northorp.

Recording Secretary—Brigadier-General Duryea.

After a vote of thanks passed to the New-York Central and New-York Erie Railroads, over which the members of the Association passed in coming to the City, and to various Associations in New-York, &c., the Convention adjourned, to meet in Buffalo on the second Tuesday of January next.

NEW-YORK ANTI-SLAVERY SOCIETY

Lecture by Wendell Phillips.

The seventh of the series of Anti-Slavery lectures for the current Winter was delivered on Tuesday evening in the Tabernacle, before an excessively crowded and influential audience, by WENDELL PHILLIPS, Esq., of Boston.

OLIVER P. JOHNSON, Chairman, introduced amid a storm of applause and cheering, the lecturer, as one who had deserved the honor of being arraigned for treason before a court of the United States. [Applause.]

Mr. PHILLIPS came forward amid renewed applause and said:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I cannot but thank you for the cordial reception after such an announcement as that which has been made; though I am free to confess that I do not know what better recommendation a stranger could carry from Boston for his good character, than the fact that he had been indicted by BEN HALLET. [Applause and laughter.] We were here to hear about Slavery, and in this Course of Lectures varied opinions had been expressed upon it, and various remedies proposed. But the subject belonged to no man; it was too great for a party; it belonged to us all; it was the great question of the day. By it was the truth of self-government to be tried. A Government is worth nothing that protects but the rich and disregards the poor. A Government is worth nothing that protects the popular—the loved; they can protect themselves. On great national issues, when the deepest fountains of national thought are touched, when the interests of society crash and jostle together like ships in a storm, then the Government that stands firm is worth something. Monarchy and a State Church, however we may disparage them, have withstood that storm, and England has been able to strike off a million of fetters, and the routine of daily life has gone on as before. This generation is to work out the problem, whether men and women, in a Republican Government, can act so.

This is one of the most momentous aspects of the Slave question; it is the test of Republicanism. No doubt there is great congratulation on the progress of Anti-Slavery sentiment, and the moral tone of the nineteenth century has made inroads even on the institution of Slavery in the despotic States. No doubt these were cheering signs. But the question was, what had been the result of the great grapple with the Slave Power? Twenty-five years had now elapsed since this struggle began, and what were now our prospects? He came here to-night to answer this question. Slavery was a grave question to him. In his youth, the lecturer thought Slavery was but to stand for a few years, but look at it now. There it stood; not a battlement gained; not a stone overturned; hardly a man killed. And we were now placed before it as we were twenty-five years ago—if changed at all it was rather strengthened. Men claimed that Garrisonians were ranters, personal and abusive, stirring up public questions too deeply, hunting individual reputations, and not given to acknowledge success. Some men blamed them for criticising the Church, the clergy, the Constitution, and the sacred institutions of the country. But the wrong was there; the strength of the enemy was to be honestly confessed and our weakness admitted. That should not deprive us of our hopes for the destruction of slavery. It would die, because it was a lie, and all lies die, and because a just God reigneth. Words did not make things; why not come to the natural and honest issue, and find out how the case stood. Were we not all embarked on the same ship, bound to the same fate? Had we not wives as beloved, children as dear, as those who declared us to be their enemies? Slavery was not the apprehension of a fugitive slave in the street. A decent tiger would protect a fugitive slave; it did not take a man to do that. [Applause.] There were cities in the North where a fugitive slave dare even tell his name; that was the climax of American Republicanism. [Renewed applause and laughter.] Syracuse and Chicago were such; but New-York was not, neither was Boston; and Philadelphia was sunk so low that nobody named her. [Laughter.] These were mere personal aspects; the great question lay behind.

The elevation of labor and the imparting of a higher power to manual energy were the great principle of Young America. In such a country wealth must be a powerful influence. Hence the starting point of Slavery was here. Two thousand millions of dollars were sunk in it—a sum before which the Yankee loses his breath—the imagination pants after it in vain. This was one of the first great elements of the slave power. As if this was not enough, we had a constitution that gave to this money power the only other power that it wanted—a political aristocracy. Five wealthy slaveholders in North Carolina are able through the ballot box to counterbalance many a whole town in New-England. The white trash, the dough faces, are the third element. In Kentucky the 35,000 owners of slaves are the whole political power; the non-slaveholders are nothing; their influence is nothing. The fourth element is the prejudice against color. In the North we might easily rouse the prejudices of those who had money against those who had none. The prejudice against color pervaded all classes; it was confined to none; you that walk on cushions, you that walk on the pavement or to the heart, the door is closed against us. And men who have breathed our atmosphere but for a day inherit the prejudice. And this was our Sebastopol. And when an attack is meditated the cry of the Union is raised: "the Constitution must be preserved," they say, and behind this cry WEBSTER concealed his ambition, and CURTISS his villainy. Literature, the pulpit, and the exchange are the three great elements of Northern character. With which of these should we fight? The slave power was never so clumsy as to tread on the present interests of the North. If she annexed Texas or Cuba she threw a sop to the mercantile interest. One per cent. a month to-day is better than the most eloquent exposition of the truth that is to triumph to-morrow. If we would see fine encouragement in the money-power, would we find it in the pulpit? If the pulpit was a wooden gun, that was not its fault; it did not make itself. But what was our Church? The Catholic priest represented the power that made him—the Pope. The Episcopal Church represented the Aristocracy, and had never, as MACAULAY has said, found itself on the side of liberty. In the voluntary system, which was ours, the pews made the pulpit. Was it to be wondered at, then, that the pulpits should represent the pews that made them? The black coat and white neckcloth made those who filled them no better than the community in which the clergy moved. We could not suppose that the pulpit could contend single-handed against the colossal money power. Where, then, were we to turn our eyes for relief? The Administration—the Government of the country—was at Washington, and all interests were represented there. But there the Slave power reigned supreme. Open the Congress door and look at the crowd who sit within. Suppose we find them sober.—[Laughter.] We do not send A No. 1 Christians to Congress. Men who do the dirty work of parties are generally rewarded by two terms in Congress. They must make the best of their time there, for once out they never return. Some fifty of these are there—servant New-Englanders, whose talent God has doubled by depriving them of conscience. These men are ready to be bought; men like CALEB CUSHING, with $50,000 to spend, meet them—Texas is annexed, the Nebraska bill is passed, and next day the North wakes up and calls a meeting to grow indignant. Our indignation is never ready at the proper time; and then we cannot keep the enthusiasm of the people at a white heat.

In the meantime the Slave-power stands silent, and cold, and bides her time. She can wait till our enthusiasm dies out, and then push her measures. Government can always beat the light floating troops of popular excitement. The subserviency of the commercial spirit of the country, of its politics, its pulpits, and its literature, were all against us—that literature which was represented by the HARPERS, who were rich enough to afford to keep a conscience, and yet could not print an Anti-Slavery book. [Laughter.] Yes, it deserves to be hissed; for the judgment of foreign nations, as expressed in their literature, was the judgment of posterity, and they saw our evils now as our descendants will see them a hundred years hence. What was the remedy for all this? The claim of the Abolitionists was "Disunion." The machine, say some, is out of order. But it was not so; it went well enough; it fulfilled the design for which it had been made; it protected Slavery. All the great English reforms had been carried by the formation of a powerful public opinion beyond the bounds of party. Here we could not create such an opinion. Something must be done to create such a sentiment. Give the thunderbolt to W. H. SEWARD, and he would wield it effectually. But we had to make the thunderbolt. Suppose New-York to-morrow should make a party that would refuse to support the United States Constitution? What would the Union do? She would never dare to arraign herself as a sovereign State. If the State of Massachusetts did that, Bunker Hill would be made the fulcrum of a lever that would burst the Union asunder. Suppose half a dozen of Slave States left together—what would they have to do? To govern themselves; but the government of a Slave country would be an expensive thing in the Nineteenth Century. Disunion guarantees education, and education guarantees liberty. [Applause.] What will be the result in the North? Men like the HARPERS will print Anti-Slavery books; the Sunday School Society will print Anti-Slavery pamphlets; and Dr. GARDINER SPRING will no longer read the Fifty-eighth chapter of Isaiah in a low voice, and pray that the Union may not be destroyed. We should gain the sympathies of all upright men; we should not be afraid to criticize public representatives; we would be the sovereigns. Let us never cease from this wholesome agitation, from the exhibition of this absolute truth. Neither let us faint, nor grow weary. Let us not be deterred by reverses, but vindicate free Government in the face of the world. [Loud applause.]

Erie Railroad.

The New-York and Erie Railroad Company has issued a circular in reference to the renewal of troubles at Erie, Pa. The General Freight Agent gives notice that as the track is torn up at Harbor Creek, the Company cannot transport freight west of Dunkirk by the way of the State Line Railroad. Freight for Detroit and Chicago will be taken vid Buffalo or the Suspension Bridge.

The new Newburg Express passenger train works well. The way passenger now leaves Otisville one hour later, connects at the Chester Junction with a train from Newburg, and so accommodates New-York and River travel at once. A similar arrangement prevails with the way passenger train for the West, leaving Jersey City at 4 P. M.

A young man named PHILLIPS, a brakeman on the emigrant train, fell from the platform of his car on Tuesday evening, and was instantly killed. The occurrence was purely accidental. PHILLIPS' age was 19.

The Commissioners of Emigration.

The Board of Commissioners of Emigration held a regular meeting yesterday. A communication was received from the Mayor (through his Private Clerk), stating that a complaint was entered at the Mayor's office, by Dr. EDWARD BYRNE, that proper care and attention was not paid to the health, &c. of passengers on their voyage to this country, and after landing. Immediate attention to the matter was requested. The Secretary was authorized to reply that proper attention would be paid to the subject.

The weekly statements submitted give the number of emigrants arrived at this port, from the 1st to the 10th inst., at 3,100; the total number of inmates in the various institutions, 1,992; receipts for the past week, $7,342 22, and the balance in bank, $69,626 68.

A considerable amount of other business, but of a merely local nature, was transacted.

The Police Commissioners—Removal of the Old Clerk.

The new Board of Police Commissioners was in session on Monday evening at the Mayor's Office Mr. MCKELLOR, who has been the acting clerk since the organization, was removed. The Commissioners gave orders that the Chief of Police and his subordinate transfer the books, decisions, complaints, applications and other documents connected with the Police Commissioners, to the Mayor's Office, where they will hereafter be kept.

Death of a Distinguished Louisianian.

Col. WEYMOUTH, a distinguished merchant in New-Orleans, La., died suddenly, Tuesday, at the Howard Hotel, from disease of the heart. The deceased was a very influential member of the Masonic Order, and stood high with the fraternity throughout the entire South. He will be interred to-day, at the Second-street Cemetery, with Masonic honors.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Board of Councilmen.....WEDNESDAY, JAN. 10.

The President, DANIEL D. CONOVER, Esq., in the Chair.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Board received a petition from five or six thousand workingmen, asking the Board to devise some suitable means whereby they can obtain employment, so as to enable them to maintain themselves and families.

Councilman WILD urged the action of the Board upon the petition, on the grounds of the impoverished condition of the thousands of mechanics and laborers of this City. He thought that the money would be better appropriated in giving work to the unemployed than in digging the graves of poor men and women in Potter's Field.

The petition was referred, on motion of Councilman MATHER, to the Board of Aldermen.

RESOLUTION.

That the report of Committee on Finance in relation to allowing interest to the contractor for regulating and grading Section C, of the Second-avenue, be taken from the table and referred to the Committee on Finance of this Board. Adopted.

To construct a new main receiving reservoir for the Croton Aqueduct. Referred.

To appoint a Committee to go to Albany to oppose amendments to the City Charter now proposed, and to appropriate $250 to pay expenses of said Committee. Laid over.

CONTESTED SEAT.

The report of a Special Committee to whom was referred the communication of William Cleary, who claimed to have been elected a member of the Board from the Fifth District, was received. The Committee reported adverse to the claim, and recommended that a special election be held to fill the vacancy from the Fifth District. The resolution was adopted and the election is ordered for the first Tuesday in February.

The Board then adjourned.

The Pugilists' Rampage—The Investigation.

The investigation of the HYER assault case took place yesterday before Justice WELSH. HYER's deposition was read, when Officer BAKER (one of the arrested parties) asked for an adjournment, as his legal adviser was not present. HYER, who had employed Mr. TALLMADGE, who was present, said that in order that the examination might not be delayed, he would waive the right and assistance of counsel. The case was then proceeded with.

Thomas Hyer sworn: After getting into Platt's saloon with some friends, the party who assaulted me, and three of whom I have recognized, followed me in; Turner shoved against me; Baker said "Don't do that;" Turner said "I'll put your brains out and guts out," he and Baker stripped their coats off at the same time, and pulled out their revolvers, six-barreled; there were two barrels discharged, as I suppose, out of Turner's pistol; I was as far back as I could get in the room; Baker said to Turner, "Look out he'll kill you;" Baker was then working at his pistol; while this was going on, I said, To show you I don't want to kill you, I took my pistol out and fired it in a direction opposite to where Turner stood and put it in my pocket again; Turner was in the act of cocking his pistol again, when I jumped at him quick and seized him by the neck; when he had no command of himself; Baker then took his pistol by the muzzle and hit me two blows on the head; I let go of Turner and seized Baker, and threw him on the floor, when I took his pistol and put it in my pocket; the police then came in, when I had them arrested, in which I assisted myself; in Broome-street Baker lost his gown on the walk and drew a knife, with which he cut me across the fingers; I gave his pistol to the Captain of the Eighth Ward station; I saw Young in the cellar but did not see him strike at me; the party who attacked me entered the cellar at same time I did, some before and others after me; I took my overcoat off that it might not be an impediment.

Cross-examined by Mr. Baker—Q.—Who shoved first? A.—Turner.

Q.—Did you say anything about licking us when in the back room? A.—No.

Q.—Did you not shove against Turner with your hand on your revolver, saying "Don't push me?" A.—No.

Q.—Did you not say to him: "You're a caster, you're a shooter, draw and I'll fight you any way?" A.—No.

Q.—Did not Turner step back instead of advancing? A.—No; both of you drew at the same time on me.

Q.—Were you drunk or sober? A.—I was sober; quite sober enough to look after you fellows.

John Doherty sworn, said: I reside at No. 379 Broome-street; I was in Mr. Platt's cellar on Sunday morning, about 24 o'clock; Mr. Turner came into the saloon first; Mr. Hyer, George Fairley and Warren Jenkins afterwards came in, also Mr. Lewis Baker; Messrs. Baker and Turner and others took several drinks together; Mr. Baker said to Mr. Turner, "We'll go into the back room and play a game of 'seven up' for drinks;" they went in; Mr. Turner came out first and stood at the end of the bar till Baker came out; a few of Mr. Hyer's friends sat near the eating bar; one of them was the purser of the steamer Marion; they asked Mr. Hyer if he would have a drink; he said, "Yes, with pleasure;" the three then came to the bar to drink; Turner and Baker stood at the end; Turner made some remark which I did not hear to Baker, and to which the latter replied, "No, not now;" then Turner went towards Mr. Hyer and his friends, and commenced shoving against Mr. Hyer, and called on the barkeeper to give him a whisky skin; Mr. Hyer said "Don't interfere with me, there is plenty of room on either side, attend to your own affairs, this is my company;" with that Mr. Turner shoved again, and said "I will have some whisky;" Mr. Hyer shoved him away again; Mr. Turner then pulled a pistol out and pointed in the middle of the floor and presented it at Mr. Hyer; he said "Shoot you big coward, you durst not shoot, you've got your hand on it, fire;" then Mr. Baker pulled off his coat and went to the side of Turner; Mr. L. Hyer went to interfere with Baker, who said "Go away from me, or I'll hurt you;" Turner then snapped his pistol at Hyer, and backed him up to the upper end of the saloon; his pistol went off twice; the shots, I do not know where they went; Mr. Hyer then grasped Turner's pistol and said, "To show you I don't want to kill you, here is mine," and discharged every barrel against the wall; while in contact with Turner; Baker came up and struck Hyer twice on the head with his pistol; Harvey Young was there and had a black bottle; Mr. James Angus asked him what he was going to do with that; he said nothing; Mr. Angus said, "Give it to me;" and took it away; the watchmen came in and arrested Baker and Turner, and Young endeavored to rescue Turner by pulling him back from the officers; I saw the mark of the pistol shots (two) in the rear of the saloon over the lamp; they were not there before the fracas, and I should think they were from Turner's pistol; Mr. Hyer discharged his pistol in a different part of the saloon; I heard Hyer say the wolves were after him and were to attack him that night; Hyer was about half and half.

James Angus sworn, said: I reside at No. 110 Laurens-street. This witness in every material point corroborated the evidence of the last witness, with the exception that Baker said to Turner, when he presented his pistol at Hyer, "If you shoot Hyer before he is ready I'll shoot you;" Turner's pistol was, I think, pointed towards the floor; when he fired Mr. Hyer retreated, and Turner followed him up, when the former said, "Now you rascal I could kill you but I don't want to," at the same time firing his pistol against the wall; Hyer said, go away from me, I do not want to hurt you; when Turner again advanced on him, Hyer said, if your intention be to kill me, come on, I'm ready for you; they then clinched; Hyer had Turner against the oyster-box, from which he carried him to the counter, and bent over it; Mr. Baker rushed in with his coat off and struck Hyer twice over the head with his pistol, when I got up Turner and grappled with Baker; Turner then threw a bottle at Hyer; the watchmen came down and clinched Baker and Hyer and took them to the Station-House; I did not see Young do anything, but have a bottle in his hand, which he gave to me when I asked it.

Justice WELSH held Turner in $500 to appear on Friday.

The Poor.

OFFICE OF ASSOCIATION, Jan. 10, 1855.

At the monthly meeting of the Managers of the "Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor," complete returns were received from every District, and from each of the 361 Sections. Never before, it is believed, have visitorial duties been more promptly and faithfully performed. The most remarkable feature in the Reports is the enlarged amount of relief, the expenditure having been double that of the corresponding month of the past year, occasioned chiefly by the great increase of assistance to respectable mechanics and laborers, during the present distress. Aid has been freely, but not profusely or indiscreetly given. Careful investigation, in regard to all new and doubtful cases, has preceded relief. It was resolved, that the following abstract of the labors of the previous month be published, viz.:

Number of families relieved	4,879
Number of persons relieved	19,974
Number of Visits	6,425

Relief and appropriations, $15,133 30.

It may be stated for the information of persons unacquainted with the Institution, that it is now, as during the past eleven years, in effective operation. Its 361 visitors are distributed so as to cover the whole Island, from river to river, and from the Battery to King's Bridge. By this minute division of labor and responsibility, it is prepared, so far as the means shall be supplied, to meet every proper want of the needy. The laborious yet inestimable services of the visitors are entirely gratuitous.

The arrangements for the attainment of its objects are, first a division of the City into twenty-two districts, corresponding with the Wards, and the appointment of an Advisory Committee of five persons in each; and next, by a further division of the Districts into 361 sections, and the appointment of a visitor to each section.

Thus, it will be seen that the diversified labors of each District are confided to the careful supervision and control of a separate Committee; and that each section has its visitor, whose field of labor is compressed to a limit which admits of his personal attention to all the needy therein. For to whatever part of the City the needy apply to the members of the Association for aid, by means of a Directory and printed tickets, they are sent back to their appropriate Section and Visitor, whose proximity to the residence of the applicants enables him, by personal visitation and inquiry, to expand, withhold or modify relief, as well defined principles, according to the dictates and necessities of every case.

Assistance is thus bestowed not only with great economy and delicacy, but it is not known to any except the visitor and proper. Its dependence, consequently, not even such relief, not in its means of undermining one high principle, or of enabling one well directed impulse.

Every proud subscriber becomes a member of the Association, and the meanest contributor is entitled to just as large a share of its privileges as the most munificent.

Directories and tickets may be obtained at the office, No. 30 Bible House, or of the officers of the Association.

By order of the Board,

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS....JAN. 10.

Before Hon. Judge Stuart.

His Honor Judge Stuart presided in this Court yesterday, when some interesting cases were tried.

BURGLARY IN THE THIRD DEGREE—A HIGHLY CONSCIENTIOUS WITNESS.

William Biggs and William Allen, two lads, 16 or 17 years old, were charged with burglariously entering the office of Solomon Roosevelt, No. 46 Mangin-street, on the night of Dec. 23, and stealing therefrom copper bars, valued at $700. The bars were disposed of to Charles O'Connor, a junk-shop keeper.

Solomon Roosevelt deposed that the copper was in the cellar of his office on the night before the robbery was committed, which was sometime on the Saturday night or Sunday morning preceding Christmas; he afterwards saw some copper bars, of the kind he should judge were his, at the foot of Fourteenth-street; he could not swear, however, to the copper that he saw there.

Mr. Spencer defended the case.

James Strickland was in the employ of Mr. Roosevelt; he saw the copper bars found in Fourteenth-street; they were found in the sewer there; he had cut a chunk from one of the bars, and was therefore able to identify it; he saw a face peering into the window of the cellar about a week before the robbery; he thought it was Biggs' face; the face had on a velvet cap; he would not swear that it was anybody's face; he wished to tell the truth between Man and God, consequently he would not like to say how many bars of copper there were in the cellar; the number ranged between a dozen and fifty; he wished to say things right, and therefore could not tell how long before the robbery he had cut the chunk off; he wished to tell the truth between Man and God, and he would venture to say it was from a week to two months—somewhere there or thereabouts; his attention was not specially called to the bar he cut the chunk off; bars of copper are 12 or 15, or sometimes 17 feet long; he cut off a large piece; he wanted to say what was right, and to tell the truth between Man and God, so he could not tell how much he cut off; it might have been a foot—it might have been seven feet; rather thought it was somewhere between there and thereabouts; he wanted only to say what was right, therefore would not say whether there were any more copper bars in the City, but thought it very likely that there were; he only wanted to tell strictly the truth.

John O'Brien, 16 years old, was then placed upon the stand. He said that he helped commit the robbery; the copper was taken to O'Connor's junk-shop; it was removed from Mr. Roosevelt's cellar, and carried up the river in a boat.

Cross-examined by Mr. Spencer—I was arrested the day after the robbery and taken to the Eleventh Ward Station-house; the Captain asked me what I knew about it, and said I had better tell; I was in the cell two days and two nights; some officers came to my cell, and told me I had better tell all about it; they said Roosevelt would let me go clear if I would tell; I told my brother who did it; he called the officers and I told them; I was taken to the Essex-street prison, and because there wasn't room for me there, I went to the Tenth Ward Station-house, where I stayed two days and a night; then I was taken to the Tombs, where I have been ever since; I saw several people there who urged me to tell all I knew; I don't want to say whether I have been a burglar before; refuse to answer all such questions; the way the robbery was done was this: The prisoners, Allen and Briggs, and a boy named Hughes, were running down the street; I ran after them and caught them; I asked them where they were going; they said, "down Houston-street;" I went along with them and asked them what "lay" they were on; they told me Roosevelt's office; we went and did ourselves to see the office locked up, and to find out that there was no private watchman; then we went home to supper and agreed to meet at O'Connor's junk shop; when I went there a lad named Hudson was there; the others came soon, and I went home to tell my mother I was going a gunning in Jersey on the next day, (Sunday) and shouldn't be home; I got a pistol, loaded it, and handed it to Biggs; I loaded it with shot larger than duck shot; I don't know what it was to be used for.

Silas Ivers, officer of the Eleventh Ward police, deposed that he found the copper in a sewer in Fourteenth-street on Dec. 26; he arrested O'Brien, Biggs and Allen; all that was known about the matter was from O'Brien's statement; Biggs and Allen were in bed when they were arrested.

For the defence, Mr. Spencer contended that the notoriously bad character of O'Brien made his statement altogether unworthy of belief.

Judge Stuart, in addressing the Jury, remarked that it was always hazardous and often dangerous to render a verdict of guilty against any party on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice. No person really would be safe if a confessed thief could testify against him. The Jury must be very careful in dealing with such testimony, even where they had little moral doubt of the guilt of the accused.

The Jury were out for several hours, and were unable to agree. The prisoners were discharged.

SHOOTING WITH A PISTOL.

William Brennan, a boy, was charged with shooting John Lucy, another boy, with a pistol.

John Lucy testified that on Dec. 30, he had a quarrel with Brennan at the boarding-place of the latter, in Pearl-street; they were going to fight, when Brennan drew out a pistol and discharged it at his head; he was shot behind the ear.

This witness had his head bound up and looked very pale and sick.

Eliza Carr deposed that the prisoner boarded with her; Lucy came to her house on the night in question to stick Brennan with a penknife, but her children screamed so much that he didn't do it; Brennan said he would shoot him if he didn't go; witness was in the room all the time, and there was no pistol fired; Lucy had his head tied up when he came to the house.

Lucy was recalled, and said the woman Carr was in the room and knew the pistol was fired; his head was not bandaged when he went to the house.

The District Attorney remarked that he had called two witnesses, and that they contradicted each other. In such case it might be unsafe to convict.

Judge Stuart instructed the Jury to acquit the prisoner.

GRAND LARCENY.

Henrietta Merrick, a German woman, was charged with robbing Philip Lipsinger, in whose service she lived, of $31 in gold and silver coin. The money was taken from a dr

The Mayor and the Governors.

The new Mayor has gained another point. The legal relations which exist between him and the Board of Ten Governors have been so defined as to fix the Mayor still more strongly in the position he covets, and which he is beginning to occupy with much honor,—that of responsible Head of the Departments of the City Government.

Immediately upon his accession to office, Mr. WOOD transmitted to the Board of Governors a communication, desiring them to impart such information as was in their power to do, touching the condition of the Almshouse Department, the amount of moneys disbursed, and the manner in which expenditures had been made. He also requested copies of specifications and contracts on file in, and made by, that Department, "with such information in relation thereto as might enable him to comprehend the obligation of the City, and of the contractor in every instance." On receiving this mandate, the Governors fell back upon their dignity, and referred the subject to legal counsel. The Board had not been accustomed to the peremptory tone which the Mayor seemed disposed to employ. It became an interesting subject of inquiry whether he had the authority to ask so many and such strange questions. A resolution was adopted, requesting the opinion of the Corporation Counsel. That functionary has decided against the Governors and in favor of the Mayor's right to ask questions. We published his reply to the resolution yesterday; and it is a noticeable fact that the Governors have not only ceased opposition, but have directed their Clerk to furnish the information called for at his earliest convenience. The signs of the times are suggestive. We have a Mayor who will be minded, whose word is law, and against whose decisions there is no appeal.

The new Charter ordains that the heads of Executive Departments shall report to the Mayor and each Board of the Common Council whenever required, and that the language of the section under which the Mayor has acted, is general and comprehensive; so that the Almshouse Governors are to be considered, until it appears otherwise, in the light of subordinate officials—not as an independent and irresponsible body.

News by the North Star.

The North Star, from Aspinwall on New-Year's night, came up yesterday with a full supply of news from both sides of the Pacific, and pretty nearly all the islands that lie between. The Isthmus news is pleasant. Only three miles more of rails are to be laid to complete the road from Aspinwall to Panama. This they think will all be down before the 1st of February, so that those who leave for California a month hence will be able to go every mile of the way from Pier, No. 3, New-York, to San Francisco by steam. Good-bye to the mule-riders—to the losing of baggage on the Isthmus—to the lying in wait for honest mulateers by the week, and being robbed at last by a smooth-tongued rogue—good-bye to the spiritual fogs and glorious uncertainty that used to envelop that dreaded pass from ocean to ocean. The locomotive will soon look the same day upon both oceans. By the first of February it is thought that the opening will be made,—it occurs to us to wonder whether the gentlemanly directors will have "an opening" and a celebration, and a jolly lot of Dead Heads from the New-York papers to make history of their triumphs,—or will they come into the Empire State arrangements and smite off all "dead heads" before they have been lashed fast to their enterprise.

The South American States are redeeming their reputation for blood and battles. We had come to think that their revolutions were a sort of ginger-pop affair, and their bloody battles a regular logwood sham. But this time they are genuine. The revolution in Granada may probably be set down as ended. This arrival gives us the particulars of the victory gained by the Constitutional party of New-Granada over the "rebels." The latter lost 400 men, and MELO, with 2,000 of his followers, was taken prisoner. But it cost the victors dear. They lost 300 men and their brave General HERRERA, besides MENDOZA and other commanders.

Further South, in Bolivia, one of the Generals of the army,—Gen. ACHA—has hatched a revolt, seized $400,000 of money from the mint at Potosi and the bank, laid hands on the munitions of war, and left BELZU, as he hoped, to chew upon his misfortunes in solemn poverty and imbecile rage. But the traitor fled as BELZU went out to meet him. Other similar revolts were crushed at their first development, but the issue of this is uncertain.

Further South, in Chili, there is trouble. At Valparaiso there has been a fire which did $150,000 damage, and only one of the sufferers was insured. At Arequipa, which lies in latitude 17° S., ELIAS' forces and the Government came into conflict. The combat lasted fourteen hours, was a fierce one; and the Government lands got the worst of it. Gen. MORAN, their leader, was taken prisoner, tried by Court Martial, (all done according to law, observe,) and—shot. (Spoken again in more civilized tone in South America; no "hem"-ing or "haw"-ing. You are captured—tried—shot.)

Boom northward. The California news is of an even tenor,—nothing for us to cheer,—nothing to hiss. We may gape, and look at the audience while this part of the page is rehearsed.

The Sandwich Islands surrender a little news. Our treaty is not signed yet—it may not be at all; it has not got along so fast as the "fast men" thought. The King's son—the Prince—who, when he visited New-England was mistaken for "a nigger," mysteriously absents himself; the treaty awaits his arrival. The story of the shock which the Hawaiians experienced, lest some Californians who had arrived might prove filibusters, is interesting. No wonder they are afraid. British Consul MILLER—poor fellow—the physicians tell him that he is too sick to attend to business—excitable, disposed to apoplexy, and with a cataract on eye, told them a doleful story, which they remember—and they have probably heard of ex-President WALKER; but they need have no fears. If the correspondent of the San Francisco Times is correct—that the Islands would cost to us only $2,500,000, and the Government property which would be ours on accepting them is now worth over $2,000,000—to attempt stealing the Islands would be about as profitable as for a man to steal his own hat. Bad news from the whaling fleet—thirty out of fifty of the Arctic cruisers came back without a drop of oil, and, of the other twenty, several have only got enough to light their own cabins and forecastles with coming home.

From the Marquesas—a group of Islands lying some 50 degrees west of the Galapagos and 10 degrees south—we have tidings,—only illustrations, however, of the facts that they hold it a shame there to bury white men, and that spiritual rappings have had their day there and were reckoned an exploded humbug before they were started here.

The Australian dates are to Oct. 3, ten days later than those brought in December by way of Europe. Hard times, bogus gold stories, Coolie arrivals and a fury to hear KATE HAYES sing, are the burden of the news in that fifth and complementary Continent.

Prisons.

We are rejoiced to see that that excellent Society, the "Prison Association," in its Report for 1854, have so far anticipated our own remarks upon the American Prison System, that they have quoted largely from the papers relating to Capt. MACNOCHIE's method. Very wisely they have allowed something of both sides to appear, in relation to that subject. The points which we have previously urged in this journal, are that at present our Prison system does not answer its own purposes; that the discharged prisoners are continually returning on the hands of the authorities; and that one principal reason is, that the usual motives influencing human character, are not brought to bear in the discipline of the prison.

Says Rev. Mr. NAYLON, in the documents brought by Earl GREY before Parliament, as quoted in the Report above mentioned, (p. 86,) "It has been the fundamental error of all former systems, that no adequate motives for exertion have been supplied to prisoners. Prospective benefits have been set before them, but, as they have been uncertain, or have depended only upon the lapse of time, they have invariably proved inoperative. The men felt they were laboring for others, and that it was their interest to husband their energies, and shirk through the various periods of slavery assigned to them as easily as they could. Is it to be wondered at? Every human being requires a present and continually recurring motive to propel him. Nothing of the kind was supplied to the prisoner. He was absolutely a slave."

"The highest motives that can excite responsible beings it is not in human power to supply, but we bring to bear on the prisoner's condition others, which, next to religious principles, are the most powerful—self-interest and self-respect. * * * As a remedy for all this, I propose that the exiles selected as I have described should have the last portion of their time-sentences commuted for proportionate pecuniary fines, to be gradually liquidated by their own industry and meritorious conduct in the colony."

This is a fair statement of the plan proposed. Capt. MACNOCHIE's system embraced other somewhat different elements. He urged strongly the influence of the social principles; that the prisoners should be divided into gangs, and then the conduct of each made to affect the comforts and privileges granted to the others, so that no individual could be rewarded or punished without the others of his party sharing. Still the main principle was that stated above—namely, that character in the prison should affect the length of punishment and the treatment—each convict receiving marks in the prison-books to his credit or discredit, according to his conduct, which marks should count, after a certain limit, in the shortening of his sentence.

So far as Capt. MACNOCHIE is concerned, this system does not seem to have had its full success, either, as he urged, because he did not have a fair field in which to try it, and it was impossible at once to break up the old routine of the English penal colonies; or, as his enemies assert, because he himself was not a practical man, and had far more ability to theorize than to execute. The main principle, however, was thoroughly tested in the colony at Hobart's Town and its neighborhood.

The men at this station were exposed to peculiarly unfavorable influences; they were at work amid crowded streets and on the public wharf of a common sea-port. The officers were opposed to the introduction of a new complicated system; and the men were the old, lazy, ingrained convicts, who hated anything which would add to their labor. The plan was tried in the following manner: The convicts were divided into three classes; a task was assigned to each individual, so calculated that he should be able to do half as much again in the working hours if he chose. This extra labor should be counted in shortening his term. So that, for instance, a prisoner sentenced to three months could release himself in two months by his own labor. Good conduct, in a similar way, counted something in shortening his time of sentence. If a convict did not perform even his daily task, he was punished, and all the prisoners were obliged to be employed during the working hours. In connection with the colony, a school was opened for the convicts, the attendance on which was entirely voluntary, except to those who could not read; and with them, the ability to read was made a condition of their being put on the probation for a shorter term.

The results of all this, as shown by impartial returns, are remarkable. "It would scarcely be possible," says the Superintendent, "to find a body of 200 men, associated within the small compass of 37-40 of a rood, the propriety of whose conduct has exceeded that of these men. Their demeanor, upon all occasions, has been most respectful; and their appearance at muster, and when proceeding to and from labor, has been remarkably clean, regular and orderly; and their general good behavior in the mess-room, the yards, and especially in their dormitories, has been no less conspicuous. It has also been pleasing to observe their marked attention during divine service and at school." Again, "It is a remarkable fact, that there has not been a single man brought before the visiting magistrate for idleness, during the whole period the station has been opened; and that very few complaints have been made to myself for inattention at work or any other irregularities." This, among the most notorious scoundrels of Europe—men to whom many of our prison companies are innocent offenders in comparison. Formerly the plan had been to allot a definite amount of work to the prisoners for the day, in which case the task was hurried through and poorly executed; or to place overseers over them to compel them to labor, by which many bad habits were induced—habits of idleness, deception and eye-service, which remained with them when they left the prisons. Now it was found that they worked healthfully and hopefully. "A wholesome and buoyant stimulus was substituted for that apathy with which the prisoner formerly regarded the mere efflux of time as the only medium by which his deliverance from punishment would be obtained; uninfluenced, unaccelerated by conduct of his own. * * * * * This also indisposes them to that dogged evasion or resistance of discipline, which, under no such stimulus, and with a frame of mind in which a sense of punishment and coercion were too often uppermost, generally prevailed."

"It is the opinion," says further one of the Reports, "of many highly respectable and practical persons, that the men at this station have performed a greater amount of labor than was ever executed in this Colony by persons of their class in an equal space of time."

Mr. GRANT, of the Spring-Hill station, says: "The amount of work performed, in comparison with what was done under the old system, is fully as 1½ to 1—and in many cases twice as much."

The other Reports are equally explicit as to the effects of this system, in the different convict-stations in Van Diemen's Land.

Of the school, Mr. GRAHAM writes: "Out of the 324 prisoners received into the school at this station, (Hobart's Town,) from 1st of May, 1848, up to December 31, (140 of whom could read scarcely, or not at all,) there are now only 24 who cannot read a Testament tolerably." * * * "Though the attendance of the prisoners at school is voluntary, yet, within a period of eight months, there have been only a few instances of refusal to do so, and those men have since attended regularly."

The principle of this system proposed seems to us so manifestly sensible and adapted for human nature, that it hardly needs these testimonies to urge it upon the public. We have simply two facts to consider—first, that our present Prison-system does not answer its purposes, and secondly, that this plan, already tested, does meet the very difficulties of the case.

The principle simply is, that Character shall have some control over the comfort and over the term of sentence of the criminal. Will not our Governor and Legislature in their new legislations consider this? The evil is so obvious. Our City prisons are crowded with people who have passed through repeated terms of sentence. Prison-life now only corrupts. "Once convicted" means, nearly always, often convicted.

Why will not our Legislators at Albany look into this matter? The condition of the Blackwell's Island Prison alone, in this regard, would startle them. It is time in the world's history, that the prisons were no more schools of vice. All that we demand is that some of the great principles, which aid in improving and elevating all human society, should be applied to the government of convicts. Will our Reformers and Philanthropists look at this?

How many Pecks to a Bushel?

Housekeepers who eat potatoes are requested to remember that when they buy of the peddlers in the street, they almost invariably buy one peck less than those innocent people may imagine who suppose that the old arithmetic tables are true which put four pecks to the bushel. In these hard times we fancy that it is no bad thing to steer clear of the peddlers' carts which bear about vegetables that are sold either by weight or measure. They generally sell a little cheaper than the grocers, but are three pecks cheaper at a dollar than four at a dollar and an eighth! "They heap up the measure." Of course they do; but a true "struck" bushel is eight quarts more than their piled up "peach-basket" bushel.

Moreover, when the grocer gives extraordinarily good measures, and "cobbles up" the pecks very remarkably, it can do no harm to remeasure your purchases on reaching home. He may only be doing a good deed in a sly way—remeasure, then, that you may discover his charity and appreciate him properly. It will take our new Mayor some time to get around to all the short-weights men—until he does, there is no better way than to keep an eye out for ourselves; and the moment it appears that we have paid for a quart more than we have got, let us put on hat and boots, walk down to the City Hall, and leave our signs-manual in the Complaint Book.

Not by any means that all peddlers are given to shaving, nor that at all of the groceries we get less than we pay for. But honest men love to be watched, and it is wholesome for rogues to be. We annex a good-natured protest from one, who, like a man that is not afraid, signs his name and gives his number. Of course we will not expose him by naming either—we know our duty to correspondents too well. It is from a citizen of the third city in size of all in these United States, and, of course, should carry weight:

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

In your paper of this morning I noticed an article in which an appeal is made to the Mayor to examine into and regulate the weights and measures of grocers, butchers and bakers, who are represented as withholding just weight, &c.

Now, I am included in the number of those who deal out coffee, tea and potatoes, to the public, though fortunately for me, in the present instance, I am not in the City of Gotham. Happy individual, thus to escape such a severe imputation.

I trust, Mr. Editor, you have more confidence in the Grocers of Brooklyn than to intimate in the slightest degree that we give twelve avoirdupois ounces only to the pound. If not, come over and try us. Buy a round bill of potatoes, sugar, tea, &c., and see if you get short weight. I will not make the sweeping assertion that every grocer gives every ounce with no lack, but I will say, that so far as my personal experience in the business goes, I "know nothing" of short weight or small measure. In such articles as the one alluded to, there should be some exceptions made, for in its broad and general form it embraces all, bringing both upright and dishonorable, both just and unjust under the same condemnation.

The "burly butchers" and "sweating bakers" are abundantly able to fight their own battles, I presume—so I will not interfere.

Should the new Mayor, in the course of his perambulations consequent upon your suggestion, fail to find in your City establishments where "good measure, pressed down and running over" is given, be so kind as to direct his notice to the "passage over the river," where he can, I trust, see AN HONEST GROCER.

BROOKLYN, Tuesday, Jan. 9, 1855.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—To-night we are to hear GRISI and MARIO again. The grand Concert for the relief of the poor affords us this enviable opportunity.

We have every reason to expect a large and fashionable audience. The seats in the boxes were disposed of at an advance on the ordinary prices of $1,000. This is good. There will be no more tickets sold than can be admitted into the house comfortably. Go, therefore, at the last moment. Your two dollars may relieve some unfortunate, homeless wretch; and you will get its worth in pure enjoyment.

OPERA RUMORS.—We mentioned some days ago that "OLE BULL & Co." had leased the Academy and would commence a campaign in February next. One rumor begets another, and at present there is quite a colony of rumors. The most portentous of these is, that NIBLO and ULLMAN have entered into a compact to "do" Opera in the old-fashioned way. They have despatched several large cages to Europe for the erratic warblers of that hemisphere, under the charge of Mr. JACOBSOHN, ex-doorkeeper at Castle Garden, wealthy capitalist of Wall-street, &c.

With the combined efforts of Messrs. NIBLO, ULLMAN, and JACOBSOHN, it is difficult to see how the Hudson can escape combustion. There is something consolatory about the fact that Mr. NIBLO did not go himself to secure the necessary talent. The English Opera troupe was sufficient of an effort for one year.

BROADWAY THEATRE.—WALLACK'S, "Maritana" will be repeated here to-night for the second time this season.

Great preparations are being made for the production of "Cinderella." It is intended to be the finest production of the season, and will be given for the first time on Monday next.

Musical.

WAR AMONG MUSIC PUBLISHERS.—We noticed a few days since a great reduction in the price of music made by the extensive and well-known publishers, WILLIAM HALL & SON, and then took occasion to give our opinion that this reduction was much needed, and would tend greatly to advance the musical interest and taste of our country. We deem this a matter of very considerable interest to the public, and now that the publication and sale of music has become a great and important branch of trade, the price should be placed as low as consistent with a fair profit to the dealer.

The music, which is reprinted from foreign copies, is produced at really trifling cost, yet the public—or those who were not the knowing ones—were taxed an exorbitant price. Enormous discounts were made to dealers, and there are places within a day's ride from New-York where music has been sold at half-price for more than a year past. Notwithstanding all these facts, the music publishers of New-York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, have held a Convention, and decided to use their endeavors to crush this reform of Messrs. HALL & SON, and refused to extend to them the courtesies of the trade, or sell to them their music, or to sell any one who will sell at the reduced price.

Whatever cause of complaint the trade may have against these gentlemen for bringing about this reform without first consulting them, they are certainly compromising themselves before the public, whose whole and entire sympathies will be with the reform movement and those who have contributed to bring it about.

The Case of Dr. Graham.

SING SING PRISON,
INSPECTOR'S OFFICE, Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Will you permit me to say, through your columns, that the notice in the TIMES of to-day, (Albany letter,) in relation to Dr. GRAHAM's alleged intoxication and disorderly conduct, on Saturday morning last, is entirely erroneous, having not the slightest foundation in truth.

Dr. GRAHAM was placed in the hospital of the prison, as apothecary, or assistant physician, because—as your correspondent correctly observes—he was thought to be eminently qualified for that position, and not from any leniency shown him on account of his former standing in society. Nor is he allowed any privileges not strictly within the rules of discipline governing the prison. It is due to Dr. GRAHAM to say, that not only is it incorrect that any such occurrence has transpired, but that he has conducted himself with the utmost propriety and order during his incarceration—performing the duties assigned him with a cheerfulness and alacrity entirely satisfactory to the officers of the prison.

Very respectfully yours, NORWOOD BOWNE.

Cleansing and Lighting the Streets.

Mr. JOSEPH B. SKILLIN, the new Commissioner of Streets and Lamps, has commenced the duties of his office in earnest, with a determination that the streets and avenues of the City shall be thoroughly cleaned and well lighted. Broadway has received the daily attention of sweepers and shovelers. The new Commissioner first made searches among the books used under the ANGELRIOT and GLEASON Administrations, and having ascertained the names of the contractors who had given security that they would clean Broadway from Union-square to the Battery, he notified them to perform their duty without delay.

The contractors for this thoroughfare are as follows:

JOHN SYKES, Esq., (First Ward,) has the contract for cleaning Broadway between Liberty-street and the Battery.

PATRICK COYLE, Esq., (Second Ward,) has the contract to clean Broadway from Liberty-street to Barclay-street.

A. G. HECKNOT has the contracts for cleaning Broadway from Barclay-street to Canal-street, Third and Fifth Wards.

JOSEPH W. BURR, Esq., has the contract for cleaning the balance of Broadway, viz.: from Canal-street to Fourteenth-street, running through the Eighth, Fifteenth, and Fourteenth Wards.

Since the notices were forwarded the work has progressed rapidly, and we are pleased to learn that every other street contractor has been furnished with the same notice, as follows:

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF STREETS,
Corner Grand and Essex-streets, NEW-YORK, 1855.

To —— Contractor for Cleaning —— District:

SIR: A complaint has been made at this Office, charging you with dereliction of duty, in failing to clean —— street, between —— and ——streets. You will therefore please take notice, that you are hereby required to perform said duty within twenty-four hours after receiving this notice, in accordance with the 15th section of your contract made with this Department. In case of failure, the same will be entered to be done by me, charging you with all the attending expenses.

MORGAN L. MOTT, Superintendent of Streets.

We are assured that the contracts for cleaning were taken at an amount quite insufficient to defray more than one-half the actual expenses. The contracts were awarded by Mr. GLEASON for the term of one year, and that gentleman received bonds that the work should be done for the amounts specified below:

First Ward	$10,800	Eleventh Ward	$7,225
Second Ward	6,000	Thirteenth Ward	5,750
Third Ward	9,675	Fourteenth Ward	7,300
Fourth Ward	7,000	Fifteenth Ward	6,000
Fifth Ward	5,850	Sixteenth Ward	6,420
Sixth Ward	9,000	Seventeenth Ward	5,075
Seventh Ward	7,125	Eighteenth Ward	6,000
Eighth Ward	11,500	Nineteenth Ward	8,000
Ninth Ward	9,500	Twentieth Ward
Tenth Ward (contract thrown up)	9,200	Twenty-first Ward	8,000
		Twenty-sec'd Ward
Total amount for twelve months			$103,420

* The Commissioner says he feels satisfied that no man can clean the Bowery portion of this Ward for the amount named.

Commissioner ESLING has adopted a system of notifying the citizens generally in regard to the removal of all obstructions in the streets and sidewalks. The following is a copy of the notice which is prepared:

In consequence of the numerous complaints made to this Office concerning the obstructions to the streets and carriage-ways, all parties interested are hereby notified to remove all obstructions of every kind therefrom.

And all lumber, timber, or other articles, obstructing the sidewalks or carriage-way, on or after that date, will be removed to the Corporation Yard, and there disposed of as the amended City Charter directs.

SECTION 319. The Superintendent of Streets is hereby authorized, and it is made his duty, to order any article or thing whatsoever which may encumber or obstruct a street, wharf or pier, to be removed; and if it is not removed within twenty-four hours thereafter, to order the same to be removed to the Yard occupied by the Superintendent of Repairs to Public Buildings, or other suitable place. J. E. ESLING.

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER OF STREETS AND LAMPS,
NEW-YORK, Jan. 10, 1855.

The same prompt action will be taken by Mr. ESLING in regard to the lighting of the City. The Commissioner has thus far put the spur to the street contractors, and has declared his intention to put on a new set of men in every instance where the contractors fail to obey his order.

The Manchester Man in Rejoinder.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

The French, in defending liberty in this country, brought about licentiousness in their own.

A MANCHESTER MAN.

The only words which I used which could by possibility be interpreted to have any bearing on the Revolutionary struggle of this country are the above, on which you comment as follows:

"We pardon the slur of the 'Manchester Man' on our own Revolutionary struggle. It is English all over. We shall never be forgiven the first element of our heroism against the 'mother-country.' If there be any alleviation of the sting in the thought that the French demoralized their own nation by taking part with us in '76, our correspondent and his countrymen are welcome to it."

Where no slur was meant, no pardon is necessary. Like most of my countrymen, I hold the memory of WASHINGTON and the great men of your Revolution with feelings of veneration akin to your own. I believe they have been among the greatest benefactors of their race. Why you should even suspect me of any vulgar and ignorant prejudice to the contrary I cannot imagine.

As you did not understand, permit me to explain what I did mean by the two lines above. The remark had reference to a particular period of French—not of American history. The French soldiers who were sent to aid in conquering the liberties of the United States, returned to Europe and promulgated opinions about human rights and human freedom, which, suitable enough to the superior intelligence of the people they had left, were not only unsuitable but positively mischievous, as interpreted by their own ignorant fellow-countrymen.

Not only the disturbance of all former ideas of Government, but also the addition to the debt of France, occasioned by aiding your Revolutionary struggle, had much to do with the destruction of the French monarchy.

The unhappy results in France sufficiently prove that.

As the vices of the old and rich French aristocracy of the eighteenth century became the vices of the poor French Democracy of the nineteenth, so I believe that the numerous virtues fostered by great trial and suffering of the upper classes in France now, will surely lead to more stability, sobriety and virtue in the coming generation. Virtues and vices descend downwards from the highest to the lower classes, whether in monarchies or republics. As DE TOCQUEVILLE well remarks, "Republics require and suppose more self-denial on the part of the people than monarchies." This Republic has succeeded; and it rests on the virtue of the people.

A righteous retribution reigns and will forever govern the affairs of mankind.

A MANCHESTER MAN.

General Wool.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

We are sorry that the Washington correspondent of your journal shows such a large sympathy against Gen. WOOL, in the matter of the correspondence with the Hon. Secretary of War. It should be remembered that it was understood that Gen. WOOL was "banished" from Washington, when he was sent to California, and like Gen. SCOTT, being no better writer, the General has fallen into the trap set for him the very moment he put his pen to paper. But Gen. WOOL has done the country some service, and his claims to consideration should not be overlooked. He is the rival of Col. DAVIS for the honor of being the living hero of Buena Vista, so that the Secretary may possibly have some feeling, he being human—but the great sin committed by Gen. WOOL was the honest and heartfelt exertions he made to put down some filibustering in California. This is an unpardonable sin in the sight of Col. DAVIS and "his section of the Government," and the sooner some one is put in Gen. WOOL's place who can't see preparations to invade a neighboring State, the better for the proposed plan of annexing Mexico, Cuba, San Domingo and "the rest of mankind," provided it is Southern territory. We are very sorry that Gen. WOOL has no elements of popularity about him,—he might possibly make capital of his correspondence. He has written quite next to Buchanan. The evening following the battle of Buena Vista [illegible] got up a ball of music, consisting of the Old Tippecanoe tune, and next to this, Wool's best character. He [illegible] did the music strike up, than Gen. Wool [illegible] from his tent and arrested all the musicians for disturbances of order, and put them in the guard house, where they remained until Gen. Wool returned them loose,—the old boy remarking, "the boys needed a little refreshing after the fighting."

Harlem Railroad.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

I have been surprised, on reading your report of the proceedings of a meeting recently held at Morrisania, to find the statement made by one of the speakers—and without qualification—that the President of the Harlem Railroad Company contemplates the abolishment of commutation. Having heard that an intense excitement prevailed along the line of the Road in consequence of a rumor to the same effect, I sought an interview with Mr. DRAKE, who assured me that the idea of abolishing commutation had never been even entertained by him.

And I am still more surprised that, at this very period when the officers of this Road are appealing to every legitimate and judicious means within their control to reduce its expenses and increase its receipts; when, for the first time within many years, it has a body of officers who devote their time and talents to the best interests of the Road—making new arrangements or discontinuing old ones, always with an intelligent reason, as well as their duty to the stockholders as of the morning of interest existing between the Road and the public. I am surprised that at such a time there should be a word of complaint uttered. If the workmen of Morrisania or of Fleetwood require another Railroad to carry them to their homes, I have no more to lay in their way, but when I reflect that no equal man who has enforced the first office in the gift of our citizens, able to live without office, is yet devoting his still powerful intellect and physical energies, and every moment of his time, to the conscientious discharge of the duties of his office without even for a moment, loosing sight of the chiefest and permanent interest of the patrons of the road, I cannot, as one who has given the subject as much attention as any other person not an officer, refrain from entering my protest against the utterance of a word in his disparagement. Say what you will, Mr. Editor, of the Harlem Railroad and its former management—you can hardly be more severe than they deserve; and if you should, it would be small comfort to corporations having no souls;—but HENRY DRAKE has a soul, and he has loved, caught and holding these fifty odd years to little purpose, if you think him now. HARRY COSTIGAN.

Commodore Perry Coming.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Commodore PERRY is probably a passenger in the steamer Baltic, now due at this port; and as ignorance of the fact can be the only cause of its not having received earlier notice, it is unnecessary to do more than announce it through your columns, to insure the Commodore's receiving a reception from our citizens that shall be a proper mark of our appreciation of the services he has rendered in the treaty with Japan, with such signal honor as well to his country as to himself. PROSPERITY.

DEATH OF THOMAS BOYD.—The Albany Journal thus notices Mr. BOYD's death: "We are pained to learn that THOMAS BOYD, (of the House of BOYD & PAUL) died in New-York yesterday. No young man was more widely known or more universally respected by our citizens than the amiable subject of this brief obituary. THOMAS BOYD was born and educated in this city, and though for several years living in New-York, where he prospered as a merchant, his associations and ties brought him so frequently among us that he seemed never to have broken up his residence in Albany. He was a most liberal, kind-hearted man, and bestowed his means freely in all of all good works and upon all worthy objects. His loss is deeply deplored by a numerous kindred and a wide circle of friends."

THE POOR.

Meeting and Procession of the Unemployed.

The poor and unemployed Mechanics and Laborers made quite a demonstration yesterday. They assembled to the number of several hundreds in the Park at 10 A. M., and after some preliminaries, tolerably arranged, formed in procession, and with banners marched through several down-town streets, through Broadway, the Bowery, and back again to the Park. The banners were four in number, and were inscribed, respectively:

"We Want Work."
"Live and Let Live."
"Hunger is a Sharp Thorn."
"The Last Resource."

During the absence of the procession, those who remained in the Park were addressed from off the steps of the City Hall by several speakers, some of whom said anything that has not already been said quite often. They condemned in strong language the indifference of officials to the wants of the people; deprecated the tyranny of capital; protested against misrepresentations to which they had been subjected, &c., &c. The remarks were frequently and vociferously applauded.

The procession returned to the Park about 12½ o'clock, and immediately took possession of the City Hall steps, amid loud applause. When quiet had been restored, Mr. ALBERT SMITH addressed the assemblage. He said:

Did any body give you a barrel of flour? [Cries of no!] Did anybody give you a joint of beef? [No!] No! No one relieved you. What is to be done? [We want work.] Yes, we want work, but have none to get. We want food, but have none. We are suffering; our wives and little ones are suffering for the necessaries of life. What are the Common Council—our servants—doing? Nothing. They are asleep. They are deaf to the cries of the people who put them in office; they talk, they talk, and only talk. We want them to act. We want them to give out the City work—to give it out immediately—not to contractors (groans) who defraud the laborer of his hire—(They do)—but to the people that they may work and live. Some time since an appropriation of $2,000 was made for tearing down the ruins of the new City Hall. Why has not that resolution been acted on? Who can answer? Let us hope now that the Common Council will arouse from the lethargy in which it has been the past week and do something for our relief. They were not sent to this Hall to sleep but to act so as to serve the interests of their constituents, to serve the interests of all citizens; not merely the rich, who have "enough and to spare," but poor citizens as well—the working man's interest. The foundation of independence guaranteed to us "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness;" but we who have observation staring us in the face have no happiness; we have not liberty to work and, I ask the question at the idea, will men have not even life taken from them? [Cries of Shame!] [There's no.] We do not want to beg; we do not want to solicit a place of emp[illegible]. [Hear, no, we don't.] The City has work enough to keep us employed; it has to be done; why not do it now? We do not ask this of the authorities as a favor, but as a right.

Mr. SMITH continued to speak for some time on the rights of labor—dwelling at length on the blessings the freedom of this "Free Republic" intended for all its citizens, and arguing that all the evils suffered by the laboring classes were owing to a want of feeling and carelessness for the interests of the people of those who were in power. He was frequently applauded.

Mr. JOHN EVERETT and others also spoke, and a Committee was finally appointed to wait on his Honor, the Mayor, to ascertain his views of the present state of affairs.

The Committee immediately proceeded to the Mayor's office, and in a short time returned and reported that the Mayor had received them cordially; that he expressed great sympathy for the large number of men now out of employment, and regretted their sufferings and the sufferings of their families in consequence; but he regretted that the present charter restricted him from giving out any work for the Corporation amounting to a sum over $500. Such was the law, and he could not violate it. As private individuals, however, he and others would do everything possible to relieve the wants of the needy. He, in conjunction with the Common Council, were then devising means for the relief of the suffering unemployed. Of one thing they might be assured, they had the sympathy of Mayor WOOD.

A VOICE—What good will that do? Will sympathy give us a meal or get us work? [Cries of "No! No!" What is the use of coming here every day? We will not starve."]

The Committee then recommended an adjournment, but the people did not hear, and became greatly excited, and many of them used violent language. Mr. SMITH again addressed them: He said that if the charter was at fault, if it required that work should be given out to dishonest contractors, and if such contracts were advertised in papers that the people never read or saw, then the Charter should be amended without delay. The people should insist on its amendment. He knew instances of fraud perpetrated by contractors on their workmen. [We all do.] At all events, the evil wherever it was, or whatever it was, should be ascertained and corrected.

A VOICE—We have heard speeches enough. We must get work—we cannot starve. We will not starve.

SEVERAL VOICES—That's right. We will stand this humbug no longer.

One of the party, highly excited, exclaimed:

"Let us go down to South-street. Let us get something to eat. We wont stand this!"

[Several others approved of the recommendation of the last speaker, and it seemed for a time not at all impossible that many might attempt to carry the threat into execution. A number of the more cool and influential counselled peace and patience, and Mr. SMITH advised them not to violate the laws and place a weapon in the hands of their enemies, but to go home in peace to dinner, and come here again to-morrow.

This recommendation was received with ironical laughter; and several cried out, "We have no dinner to go to;" and others added, "Nor fire either;" to which Mr. SMITH responded, "Gentlemen, I am sorry; I am not much better off."

After a good deal of loud and excited conversation, some of the assemblage slowly withdrew, (it was then 2 o'clock,) but the greater proportion remained around the City Hall for some time longer, and many assembled even till dark.

No one who witnessed the scene could fail to be deeply impressed with a conviction of the destitution of a large number of the laboring classes of the City at the present time, and a feeling of deep sympathy for their sufferings. All of those who presented themselves in the Park were strong, able-bodied men; and that the poverty of which they complained was real, no one who saw them could for a moment doubt.

The Workingmen to the Common Council.

The people who met in the Park agreed, during the day, upon the form of the following memorial, which was duly presented in the Board of Councilmen in the evening, and referred:

CITY OF NEW-YORK, Jan. 10, 1855.

We, a Committee appointed at a public meeting of artisans, mechanics and laborers of the City of New-York, assembled in the Park for the purpose of petitioning the Honorable Board of Aldermen and Councilmen, thereing upon your sensibilities to the number of 5,000 at 9 AM., to memorialize your Honorable Board, asking from your wisdom to devise some suitable means whereby we, your petitioners, can obtain employment so as to enable us to maintain ourselves and families without resorting to your Honorable body, or as American citizens asking charity from you, or subjecting ourselves to be considered as beggars, while we are not only able to work, but we are as fully willing as we are able; and we, your petitioners, would most respectfully urge on your Honorable body that you would forthwith commence the putting down and furnishing of the New City Hall, and at once carry out the project of the Eighth Avenue Railroad, or any other public work that your Honorable body in your wisdom may think proper to commence with. Meanwhile your petitioners fully sensible that your Honorable body will at once make such provision as to meet the absolute necessities and in supplying the present wants and necessities of your petitioners and their families so as to prevent any further sufferings to themselves and families, until we can obtain employment. Your compliance to the above will ever pray.

The Board of Ten Governors on the Unemployed.

The following communication from the Board of Ten Governors was received last evening by the Board of Councilmen, and was, on motion, referred to the Almshouse Committee:

Whereas, There appears to be a probable necessity for extra provision for the temporary support of persons thrown out of employment in this City by the general depression of business and labor, which prevailed to so let throughout the Winter months—the Governors of the Almshouse respectfully submit the following resolutions for the consideration of the Common Council.

Resolved, That the Common Council be requested to appropriate such sum or sums as they may deem proper for the purpose of organizing a temporary Department under the control and management of this Board, for the purpose of furnishing nutritious food and relieving the poor, if in their judgment a necessity exists.

Resolved, That this Department be closed on the 15th of March, and that a statement of the quantity and kind of food, and cost of the same, be accurately made out and filed in this Department.

Adopted by the Board of Governors, Dec. 29, 1854.
JOSHUA A. PHILLIPS, Clerk.

Emigrant Paupers.

There arrived at this City on the 3d inst., from Boston, on the steamboat State of Maine, 43 immigrants. Being entirely destitute they sought assistance from the Commissioners of Emigration. On inquiry being made, the immigrants stated, and afterwards made an affidavit, that they were natives of Switzerland; that they were very poor in their own country—so poor as to be unable to obtain a livelihood; that the Mayor of the village in which they resided paid their passage entire to New-York, and that they sailed for this City in the ship Arcadia, but the vessel being wrecked they were landed at Halifax, and from thence were accompanied by some person to Boston, who paid their fare from there to New-York on board the State of Maine.

The Arcadia not being a regular trader to this City, had no consignees here. Hence, the Commissioners of Emigration had no one here to whom to apply for a compliance with the Emigrant laws in such cases. Under these circumstances the Commissioners of Emigration are not bound to be at any expense for the maintenance of the immigrants, and accordingly they will be sent back to Boston, it being the first port in the United States at which they landed.

☞ The Duke of NORTHUMBERLAND might yesterday (says the Gateshead Observer) have exclaimed, "Save me from my friends!" His good friends the bell-ringers were making the air vocal, and people were running about Gateshead streets, inquiring, "What is it? Has Sebastopol fallen?" "O, no!" was the reply of the well informed, "'tis the Duke of NORTHUMBERLAND's birthday." Then up rose the eyebrows of the gossips, and they went their way muttering, "Is that all?"

FASHION AND FAMINE?

Messrs. BUNCE & BROTHER, of New-York, have recently, and for manifestly selfish and unnecessary ends, put up a very stupid assumption, and are now, in a roundabout sort of most virtuous indignation, doing all in their power to knock it down. The assumption is that the authoress of "Fashion and Famine"—Mrs. Ann S. Stephens—has been reputed to be the author of "Hagar the Martyr." Now, we have given Bunce & Brother no reason whatever for assuming any conclusion of the kind; and in looking over the numerous favorable notices of "Hagar the Martyr" which have appeared in the public prints, we can find no authority on which to base such an supposition. The all thrown by, with two exceptions, been stated in these notices referred to, to be Mrs. H. Harper Stephens; and those two exceptions were the Boston Times and Transcript, both of which papers spoke of Mrs. Stephens as the Mrs. Stephens of Boston, and not Mrs. Ann S. Stephens of New-York, whom we are justified in saying, neither of the editors alluded to had in their minds at the time they penned their notices.

But, supposing the public should confound the names of the two ladies, it is not the office of all uncertain that Mrs. Ann S. Stephens would be highly complimented by the mistake. Nay, it is absolutely improbable that she will, or ought to be; for, if we mistake not, the book published by Bunce & Brother under the title of "Fashion and Famine," has a singular affinity in all respects to one previously and forcibly known as "Prisons and Palaces;" a Sequel to the Straw Berry Girl. Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. H. Harper Stephens—is no rellator, but the authoress of an entirely original work, and in this respect, would not likely, by parties interested, be wilfully placed on the level of a mere compiler and patchwork of old and exploded materials. It is, therefore, under the circumstances, entirely unnecessary and uncalled for, on the part of Messrs. Bunce & Brother, to notify the public that Mrs. H. Harper Stephens is not the author of "Fashion and Famine." That lady has fame enough independently of what she would derive from such a relationship; and is evidence of this we pull from a very numerous and elaborated series of criticisms the following brief and ungarbled extracts:

From the Newport (R. I.) Journal.

"The plot is excellent, the ideas fine and the language bold and flexible. She wields a graphic and a caustic pen, while, at the same time, many of her sentences are models of tenderness and love, in their noblest and best sense."

From the Salem Observer.

"'Hagar the Martyr' is a tale of great power, in which the ability of the writer is strikingly exhibited."

From Balloo's (late Gleason's) Pictorial.

"Mrs. Stephens has a very high literary reputation as a poetess, and the work referred to establishes her claim to rank as one of the best female prose writers. Without any affecting sentimentality, the book abounds in pathos, and passages of exquisite beauty.

From the Dover Gazette.

"This work is one of the most interesting and exciting romances ever issued from the American press. Written in a bold yet beautiful style of diction, it finds its way to the reader's heart, and warms the finest impulses of his nature into being. Mrs. Stephens has established a reputation as a prose writer, and will be read by millions in our land."

From the Portsmouth Journal.

"A deeply interesting story, well sustaining the already high reputation of the author."

From the Concord Patriot and Gazette.

"The eminence in the literary world to which Mrs. Stevens has already attained may well be held as security against mediocrity; but Hagar stands far above that stature. It is avowedly founded on fact, and its details are wrought up in a style calculated to awaken many to the appreciation of a propriety of conduct they may hitherto have disregarded. Hagar is emphatically a plaintive lesson of reform in a department of social life whence flows everything for good or evil, as virtuous or vicious direction may be given to it. Its fine sentiments are striking, and its characters original and varied."

From the N. H. Telegraph.

"The characters are very highly drawn, and the work is one of the most exciting of the day."

From the Nantucket Inquirer.

"This is a tale of exciting interest; one of those heart-stories which seem the peculiar province of Mrs. Stephens' pen."

From the Boston Post.

"A fair representation of many of the trials and struggles which young women, without friends, are constantly beset with, the more particularly in city life."

From the Boston Times.

"We can heartily recommend Hagar to all who would read an able, virtuous and highly interesting romance. It is a book that ought to have as great a run as 'Ida May,' for it is spirited, free and, we add, written with amazing vigor."

THIRTY-FIFTH THOUSAND
Ready Jan. 8.

A gentleman, who confessed that he had not read the Waverley Novels, at a time when public curiosity was excited to the highest pitch concerning the "Green Unknown" and his brilliant creations, said that he owed to the fact of his ignorance some of the most pleasant evenings of his life. At parties everybody was eager to get him into a corner, so as to be the first to hear; he to him the stately Flora Mac Ivor, or the gentle Amy Robsart, or the fiend himself unexpectedly a lion. The man who has not read will soon enjoy a similar distinction; for the popularity of this beautiful story is steadily on the increase, and its sale this fall to be limited only by the number of the reading public.

IDA MAY

The Publishers call attention to the few notices appended:

From the New-York Commercial Advertiser.

"It is, without exaggeration, one of the most powerful works of fiction that have yet emanated from an American pen."

From the New-York Tribune.

"The evil effects of slavery are treated of rather incidentally than directly, and always without bitterness. We do not know why the book should not be read with satisfaction at the South, as a forcible representation of local customs and scenery."

"The specimens of negro dialogue are rendered with infinite spirit, and were evidently obtained from personal observation at the South."

From the Boston Atlas.

"The character of Ida May is one so intrinsically exquisite, so true to itself throughout the tale, and one that so entirely wins its way to our interested and ever affectionate sympathy, that we scarcely can believe that she is not one of our most intimate acquaintances rather than an ideal creation of another's brain."

From the New-Haven Journal and Courier.

"We have read this book with intense interest. The exciting subjects upon which it bears is sufficient to arrest the attention. But the surpassing literary ability with which it is displayed—the complicated and well-constructed plot of the story—the beautiful descriptions of scenery—the well-drawn characters—the strong blows which are dealt against the injustice and wrongs of Slavery—will chain the attention of the reader until he has finished the last page."

CASH MUSIC STORE.
MUSIC AT HALF PRICE.

WILLIAM HALL & SON, No. 239 Broadway, (opposite the Park,) have decided to reduce the price of their entire CATALOGUE and STOCK of Non-Copyright Music to an average of one-half the former prices.

In order to afford this reduction, we are obliged to adopt the cash system; and we believe that our friends, and the public generally, will be ever better served thus heretofore, by a strict adherence to this system.

In regulating our prices, we have adopted our NATIONAL CURRENCY, and have, as far as possible, made the prices in decimals.

The price will be marked on every piece of music. The Non-Copyright Music will be marked "REDUCED PRICE, ___ cents," and the Copyrights thus—"COPYRIGHT, ___ cents." All the Non-Copyright Music printed previous to this arrangement will be sold at one-half the old prices.

A similar reduction will be made on Instruction Books, &c.

Since the study of music has become an essential branch of education, a reduction in the price of Sheet Music has been demanded by the public, and we have no doubt that the plan we have adopted will increase our sales sufficient to warrant us in carrying out our enterprise to its fullest extent.

Our Catalogue contains the best music of the best European Authors, and we will continue to reprint such as may hereafter be published—all of which will be sold at less than one-half the prices of the foreign copies.

We will continue the manufacture of PIANO-FORTES, GUITARS, FLUTES, &c., &c., and also the importation of EVERY ARTICLE OF MUSICAL MERCHANDISE, and will sell for cash only, at greatly reduced prices.

Orders from any part of the country, enclosing the money, will be promptly attended to.

PROSPECTUS
NEW-YORK SATURDAY COURIER.

This new weekly, which has just made its appearance in the literary and commercial metropolis of the Union, is in the most favorable auspices, with every advantage that enterprise, energy, experience and editorial ability can insure, has been established for the purpose of supplying the public with a pure, high-toned, entertaining and instructive

MODEL FAMILY PAPER.

Its columns will be adorned with contributions from the most distinguished writers of America, and extracts carefully gleaned from the choicest productions of European literature, and will embrace every variety in the field of Polite Literature:

STORIES, TRAVELS, POEMS,
SKETCHES, ANECDOTES, REVIEWS;

contributions of value and interest for the farmer, the mechanic, and the man of science; weekly abstracts from the New-York markets; practical and intelligible Park on Stocks, with occasional patterns and illustrations; sparkling Editorials on the current topics of the day, special Correspondence from all parts of the we lid, and a condensed summary of News. The extracts taken will be from rare and costly books or other sources not generally accessible; the reader will not thus be made to pay for what he has already seen printed and reproduced in the various prints of the day.

It is proposed to show in the columns of the N. Y. Saturday Courier that is not entirely extinct among us. The Editor is instructed to speak free y and fearlessly on all topics of public interest. Books are read, before being noticed, and are criticised not puffed. The independence of the press will be strictly maintained, and no outside influence allowed to a great or lesser expression of opinion. The reader will find that he may place unmerited confidence in our notices of new books and music.

THE WAY TO BUILD UP A BEARD.—Governor Gardner, of Maine, in his Thanksgiving Address, then [illegible] the women of Maine to raise beards. She wants farmers, mechanics, engineers, architects, and men who will adorn her with edifices worthy of her noble hills and rivers, and engineers and geologists who will develop her resources, and thus augment the wealth and prosperity of her citizens. This want can only be supplied by the establishment of a college of agricultural science. I have no hesitation, therefore, in recommending that a University fund be appropriated to establish a practical scientific or agricultural school.

Markets.....Carefully reported for the N. Y. Daily Times.
WEDNESDAY, Jan. 10—4 P. M.

ASHES—The supply is light and the demand is moderate. The day's sales embrace 25 bbls. at $7 25 for Pearls, and $7 12½@7 75 for Pots, ⅌ 100 lbs.

BEESWAX—About 2,700 lbs. American yellow sold at 27c. cash, ⅌ lb., duty the latter rates.

BOOTS AND SHOES—The week is not very large; but the very high for the home trade and shipment, in spite the dull and quotations are but nominally sustained. The general tone seems to that the Spring business will be large, and the manufacturers making Spring are in hearty with this anticipation.

BREAD—The bulk report and demand is moderate; yet with a relieved supply on hand, prices rule very low. We quote: Crackers at 6½c.@7c., Pilot at 6½c., and Navy at 6½c. ⅌ lb.

BRICKS—North River Hard are rare and quiet, yet without any or change to 50 ⅌ thousand.

BRISTLES—Continue in fair request at 38c.@40c. for prime Russia, 35c.@38c. for Main Sorts, 32c.@37c. for Ayrmullins, and 16c.@18c. for Mould Tailow, ⅌ lb.

COAL—Nothing now can be derived in Liverpool Coal, which is barely worth ⅌ 20 ⅌ chaldron. There is some demand for Cannel, Newcastle at $7 50@$7 75, and for New-Castle at $6 75@$7 ⅌ chaldron; but the sale is not extensive. Anthracite is taken in lots, as wanted, at $7@$7 50 ⅌ ton of 2,000 lbs., delivered.

COCOA—We have no change to notice, the inquiry being very quiet at former rates.

COFFEE—The market is less active, but in other respects [illegible] were reported to-day of 70 pkgs. Java at 11½c.; 50 Laguayra at 10½c.; 300 Maracaibo at 10c.; and 250 bags, in lots, at 9½@10½c. ⅌ lb. The editors of the Shipping and Commercial List have [illegible]

COTTON—Remains in poor stock and fair request at [illegible]. The day's sales are estimated at 1,500 bales. We quote:

NEW-YORK CLASSIFICATION.

	Upland.	Florida.	Mobile.	New-Orleans and Texas.
Ordinary	7	7	7	7
Middling	8½	8½	8½	8½
Middling Fair	9	9	9½	9½
Fair	9½	9½	10	10½

DRY GOODS—This branch of business is still devoid of all animation. The arrival of some distant country dealers has brought a greater crowd into the market, but as the purchases have not been numerous, and what goods have changed hands were taken either by buyers from the Southern, who greatly needed some Spring goods, or by local jobbers and clothiers, who purchase very sparingly and only as their necessities compel them to do so. The receipts of goods are moderate, and the sales are in running but slowly. Prices are [illegible]. When a little more life be [illegible] apparent in the business, which will probably occur in a week or two hence, we shall resume our usual epitome of the traffic. We subjoin a comparative statement of the import house of Cotton goods, during each of the past six years:

	Pkgs.		P'kgs.
1849	24,164	1852	54,039
1850	36,715	1853	38,818
1851	38,033	1854	25,615

FEATHERS—Prime Live Geese are without variation; 1,300 lbs. of an inferior quality were sold to-day, at 25½c. cash, ⅌ lb.

FISH—There is rather more inquiry to-day for dry Cod, at $3 50@$3 ⅌ cwt.; but other articles remain as last noticed.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western brands are moderately active and steady. The supply is not large, and owners are not very eager to sell at anything under our quotations; while there exists a moderate Eastern and local demand, with some speculative and export inquiry within our range. The day's transactions add up 4,000 bbls., including about 2,000 bbls. Western, to arrive in February and March, on terms not made public, and the remainder State and Western here at the annexed rates:

Superfine No. 2	$8 25 @$8 62½
Ordinary State	8 75 @ 8 87½
Extra State	8 87½@ 9 00
Favorite State	9 00 @ 9 12½
Round Hoop Ohio	9 00 @ 9 25
Common to Good Indiana and Michigan	9 25 @ 9 37
Fancy Michigan	9 37 @ 9 62½
Common to Good Ohio	9 12½@ 9 50
Fancy Ohio	9 50 @ 9 62½
Extra Ohio	9 62½@11 00
Fancy Indiana and Michigan	9 62½@10 25
Fancy Genesee	9 50 @10 00
Extra Genesee	10 75 @12 00

Canadian is without change. 1,800 bbls. superfine found buyers at $9 12½@$9 25, in bond, and $10@$10 25, free, duty at the medium rates, ⅌ bbl. Southern is depressed and inactive. Sales were made of 1,600 bbls. at $9 12½@$9 62½ for mixed to good straight and favorite, with $10@$10 50 for fancy and extra, ⅌ bbl. Buckwheat Flour is plenty and heavy, with limited sales at $4@$4 50 ⅌ 100 lbs. Rye Flour is salable and steady at $5 50@$7 75 ⅌ bbl. for fine and superfine ⅌ bbl. Corn Meal is doing better, the receipts have fallen off of 250 bbls. Jersey at $4 75@$4 87½, and small lots of Brandywine at $4 ⅌ bbl.

FRUIT—The day's sales include 300 boxes Layer Raisins, at 87½c.@$1 85c. 600 boxes Dunch do. at 62½c.@62½c.; 25 bbls. Currants on private terms; 20 cases Sardines, at about 60cts.; and small lots Langedoc Almonds, at 16½c.@17c. No change in Apples, Cherries, or Peaches.

GRAIN—Wheat is quite rare and much wanted at current prices. This day's sales have been confined to about 1,400 bushels Southern Michigan White, at $2 45c.; 600 prime Genesee Red, at $2 25c.; and an equal quantity of Long Island Red, at $2 ⅌ bushel. Rye is quoted at from $1 20c.@$1 40c. ⅌ bushel, with a poor supply and light sales. No alteration is noticeable in Barley. Oats are dull and heavy, at 52c.@60c for Jersey, 60cts. for State, and 62c.@65c. for Jersey, ⅌ bushel. Corn is nominal and rather lower. It is freely offered for future delivery. The demand is not very brisk. The day's sales consist of about 32,000 bushels, at $1 06c. for some very choice Southern White, to arrive; $1 04c.@$1 05 for do. White and Yellow, also mostly to arrive; $1.04c. for Western mixed, in store, though this is generally held at $1 05c.; and $1 02c. for inferior Southern Yellow, afloat, ⅌ bushel.

HAY—Some 600 bales River found purchasers at 95c.@$1 for shipping, and $1 12½ for local use, ⅌ 100 lbs.

HEMP—There has been nothing of importance done since our last. Stocks fair; prices nominally the same.

HIDES—Are generally more freely offered, at 8c.@9c. ⅌ lb. lower prices, but are rather inactive, as buyers purchase only as they are in need of stock.

HOPS—There were 56 bales now disposed of to-day at 22c.@25c. ⅌ lb.

IRON—Scotch Pig is in stack demand at $29@$30, usual credit, ⅌ ton. Bar is dull and nominal. The last sale of refined English was made at $65, 7 months' time, ⅌ ton.

LATHS—Eastern are arriving and selling slowly at $1 50, cash, ⅌ thousand.

LEAD—We have only to report sales of 100 tons English, in bond, said to be for export, at $5 12½ ⅌ 100 lbs. Market quiet; prices unchanged.

LEATHER—Domestic tanned sole is in better request and very firm. Other kinds are as last noticed.

LIME—Rockland is more sought after at 80c. for common, and $1 10c. for Lumps, ⅌ bbl.

MOLASSES—Nothing further has occurred in Cuba. Sales were made of 250 bbls. New-Orleans at 27c. ⅌ gallon. The latter is wanted by the trade.

NAVAL STORES—Crude Turpentine is rather scarce, but quiet and depressed, at $3 37½@$4 25 ⅌ 280 lbs. There is more inquiry for Spirits Turpentine, the stock of which is reduced, and this day's sales of which reach 500 bbls. in shipping order, at 45c.@48c., cash, ⅌ gallon. Tar is very dull and nominal. Rosin is attracting more attention, at $1 37½@$1 50 for common, ⅌ bbl., delivered, at $2 25 for No. 2, and ⅌ ⅌ $5 for.

OIL CAKE—Is almost out of market, but it is in very short request, and prices are without change.

OILS—Crude is quoted inactive, at 35c.@37c. for Whale, and $1 70@$1 75 for Sperm, ⅌ gallon. There is very little offering. Manufactured kinds are selling at 70c.@75c. for bleached Winter Whale, and $1 50 for unbleached Winter Sperm, ⅌ gallon. City Red Oil is in better request, at 60c. ⅌ gallon. Palm has recently been freely purchased, in part for export, and is now very firm, at 8½c.@9½c. ⅌ lb. Olive is quiet, but steady, at $1 12½@$1 18½, ⅌ gallon; and $3 50 ⅌ basket. Linseed is easier, and selling in lots, at 51c.@52c., cash, ⅌ gallon. Winter Lard Oil is in pretty good demand, at 82½c.@85c., as to quality, ⅌ gallon.

PLASTER—The market is pretty well supplied; but the inquiry is restricted, and former rates are barely sustained.

POTATOES—We find a heavier stock in market; but the consumption is not more extensive, and the export demand is limited. Prices of common range from $1@$1 25 ⅌ bbl. Sweet Potatoes are rare and nominal.

PROVISIONS—Pork is not very brisk, but it exhibits greater firmness. Sales transpired, to-day, of 650 bbls. at $18 25@$18 37½ for old Mess; $16@$16 25 for new do.; $15 25 for old Prime, of which there is very little here; and $16@$16 12½ for new Prime, ⅌ bbl. Bacon Hams are freely offered, and now readily bring 6c.@6½c. ⅌ lb. Pickled Meats are selling slowly at 5½c.@6c. for hams, and 4c.@4½c. for shoulders, ⅌ lb. Dry salted Meats are rare and needed at full prices. There still exists a good inquiry for Bacon at 5½c.@6c. ⅌ lb. Lard is more sought after, and is very firm. The day's sales amount to about 700 bbls. common to prime at 10½c.@11c. ⅌ lb. Beef is in fair supply and demand, with sales of 200 bbls. at $5 50@$7 for Country Prime; $8 75@$11 25 for do. Mess; $14 75@$15 25 for repacked Chicago do.; and $15 50@$16 for extra do. ⅌ bbl. Prime Mess Beef is in good request at unchanged prices. Sales were reported to-day, of 320 tierces Dunnideck, to arrive, at $27 50; and small lots of Cleveland here, at $26 ⅌ tierce. Beef Hams are salable and steady, at an quality, from $15@$18 ⅌ bbl. Tongues is plenty and heavy, at 12c.@16c. for Ohio, 10c.@04c. for Western New-York, and 8c.@9c. for Orange County, ⅌ lb. Cheese is more freely offered, and is depressed, at 10c.@11c. ⅌ lb.

RICE—This day's sales have been reported at 500 tierces good to choice at $4 12½@$4 75 ⅌ 100 lbs.

SALT—The demand is very moderate at drooping prices. The stock is increasing slowly.

SOAP—There were 50 boxes Castile taken at 11½c. ⅌ lb.

STEARINE—Some 15,000 lbs. White have been sold, mostly for export, at 10½c.@10½c., the latter rate for small lots ⅌ lb.

SUGARS—Are quiet but steady. This day's sales include 120 hhds. New-Orleans at 5c.@5½c.; 60 hhds. Cuba at 4½c.; and 32 boxes brown Havana at 5½c. ⅌ lb.

TALLOW—Sales were made of 15,000 lbs. Prime, at 12½c.@12½c., cash, ⅌ lb.

TEAS—Are in very limited request at about previous rates. The supply is ample, but is not pressed upon the market.

TOBACCO—This day's sales embrace 90 hhds. Kentucky, at 7c.@10½c.; 47 cases Seed Leaf, at 9c.@13½c.; and small lots of Florida, at 20c. ⅌ lb.

TIN—Remains in rather limited stock and slack demand, at unchanged figures.

WHISKY—Continues on the advance. The day's sales comprise 450 bbls. Ohio and Prison, at 30c.@30½c., cash, ⅌ gallon.

WOOL—The market is generally very dull. Fine descriptions are scarce, and though quiet, firm; but other qualities are plenty and heavy. The sales of the week have been very light. Prices are without essential change. Last year's imports of Wool into New-York reached 31,263 bales, or over 6,000 bales less than those of 1853; while last year's exports hence comprised 2,323 bales, against 246 bales during 1853.

FREIGHTS—The business was very moderate. For Liverpool the engagements included some lots of Cotton at 7-32d. ⅌ lb.; 500 tons Beef at 3s. 3d.; some Rosin at 1s. 9d. ⅌ bbl.; 150 boxes Bacon at 17s. 6d.; 200 boxes Cheese at 22s. 6d. ⅌ ton; 150 bbls. Pork at 2s. 3d.@2s. 6d.; 100 bbls. Oil at 20s. ⅌ ton; and for Breadstuffs the quotations were 1s. 6d. for Flour ⅌ bbl., and 4d.@4½d. for Corn ⅌ bushel. For London the shipments comprised 200 tons. India Mess Beef at 5s.; some ordinary tres. do. at 4s. 6d.; Pork at 2s. 6d. ⅌ bbl.; Cheese at 27s. 6d. ⅌ ton; 50 bales Hops at 1c. ⅌ lb.; and measurement goods, in lots, at 25c. ⅌ ton. For Glasgow there were some engagements of heavy goods reported at 32s. 6d. ⅌ ton. For Antwerp there were taken 100 bales Cotton at ¾c. ⅌ lb. For other ports we heard of nothing new. The latest charters have been: a ship from Liverpool to Calcutta, and back to London or Liverpool, (second voyage,) at a round sum; one hence in ballast, from Calcutta to London or Liverpool, £5; one from Philadelphia, same voyage, £4 15s.; one from Boston, same voyage, (third charter,) at same time last year; hence to the Northern Pacific, from Calcutta to London or Liverpool, £4 17s. 6d.; one to Melbourne, Lumber $25, and measurement 25c.; a Br. ship, 600 tons, to Glasgow, and back to a port in the United States, $6,000; a bark, 350 tons, to Marseilles, Sicily and back, $6,000; one of 160 tons, from the Spanish Main to New-York, about $800; one of 300 tons, from Porto Rico to New-York, Sugar 40 cents, and Molasses $3 on deck, gross gauge; a schr., 150 tons, to St. Thomas and St. Croix, $600; one from Union Island, Geo., to Mystic, Conn., ship Plank, $6, and Flooring Boards, $6; ship Helen S. Cooper, 790 tons, a twelve months' voyage, at a monthly rate; a bark, to Mantanzas, Bhd. Shooks, and a Hamburg bark, to Hamburg, Logwood, on private terms.

BEEVES.

At our Cattle market to-day we found 1,720 head, which is an increase of 443, and for the week 606 over last. The quality in general was pretty fair, with a less number of very extra, while some of them were hard-looking cases; and the market was less spirited than on last Wednesday, which may be attributed to a great extent to the unusual weather that has prevailed. Though it is clear to-day, it is rather warm, and tends to retard sales than otherwise. The attendance of butchers was about the usual number, but they evinced but little inclination to purchase liberally, unless at a material abatement in prices, and with much contending as to weights. Owners use much discrimination as to their droughts, and submitted to a slight reduction in prices—about ¼c. ⅌ lb. The supplies this week have been chiefly from this State and Ohio, and the considerable increase in numbers to-day has astonished some of the salesmen, though we think it not unaccountable, when one takes into consideration the extreme prices at which Corn is selling, ($1 06.) This is by no means profitable for feeding, at this price. There were only a few Cattle to-day that brought 11c., consequently we reduce our quotations fully ¼c. ⅌ lb., with a larger number to sell for the remainder of the day than for several weeks past.

PRICES.

Common quality Beef at	8½c. @ 9c.
Inferior quality Beef at	7½c.@ 8 c.

We understand that at Bergen parties have been quite successful in disposing of considerable number of Cattle previous to the market day to butchers from New-York and Jersey City and the vicinity, and for our part we can see no great inducements, as the prices reported to us were fully up to the prices of to-day if not above them.

The receipts at the different markets are as follows:

At Allerton's	1,320	At Browning's	503
At O'Brien's	297	At Chamberlain's	415
Total	3,350
Received the previous week	2,499

From our memorandum we give the following:

SHERMAN & WHEELER offered for sale 65 Pennsylvania Cattle from Lancaster County, averaging about 6¾ cwt. These were in ordinary condition, and the description was less inquired after than on last Wednesday. Six sold to BENJAMIN MOORE at $94 a head, which is over 10c.

A. BAKER had 40 head from Livingston County, this State—average weight about 6 cwt., though we think not quite up to that figure. Four head sold at $135—$23 75 a head. The price indicates the quality.

WHITE & ULERY had 14 head Chester County Steers of pretty fair quality, will weigh 9 cwt., and sold at our outside quotations. GWYNE purchased 9—not the top of the drove—at $100, which he considers 10½c. He also bought 5 from another party at $105 a head—good length bullocks, pretty well fatted. They had also 37 Virginia Cattle, weighing 7 cwt., and sold slowly at 9c.@10c.

BELDEN & BROWN offered 140 head, part from this State and part from Ohio. Thinks they will average 7½ cwt., and sold 15 head to CORNELL at $65, about 8½ cwt., and 10 to MEAD VALENTINE at $82 50, which is the ruling rate to-day, 10½c. ⅌ lb. These were, on the whole, a pretty fair lot.

Mr. WELLING had 68 head from Orange County, very good cattle, an even drove, and sold at 9½c.@10½c. One pair sold to FISHER, good solid Beef, at $175.

G. ATZAULT had 77 head from Livingston County, a greater part oxen; 40 head is owned by HAMILTON, 12 of which sold to MEAD VALENTINE at $110, which he says is 11c. ⅌ lb.; 28 were owned by SACKETTS & BRIGGS, of which 6 sold to ORWALD, of Brooklyn, at $90 ⅌ head, which is also quite 11c. The best of this drove were very fine retailing quality, but run down to quite ordinary, and sold at 8½c.

BARNEY BARTRAM had 120 head from Ohio of thin stock, small size, owned by FLORENCE, and sold in parcels at 8c.@10c., average about 6 cwt.

ALVA MEAD had only 9 head of his usual quality; very good Beef, large size; 5 would weigh 10 cwt., and 4 9 cwt., and sold to DEVAU at $95, which is 10½c.

KELLY & CAREY had 56 head, part from Dutchess County and part from Western New-York, said to weigh 8 cwt., in pretty fair condition, the best of them; 11 sold to JAMES IRWIN at $95, and 4 to BURNHAM at the same figure, which is 10½c.

J. H. CARPENTER had 11 head from Cattaraugus County, 8 of which sold at $115, which he thinks is nearly 10c. He sold 60 head at Bergen, average 7 cwt., part from Erie County, some heavy and some light, at 9c.@10½c.

MILK COWS.

We have to report quite an increase in the receipts, but not a corresponding improvement in demand. The quality in general is pretty fair, though we find a large number neither fit to live nor die. At BROWNING'S, a very fine Cow sold for $75 50 as a sort of animal that is nourishing to lay eyes upon. We quote ordinary to fair, at $30@$50; and good to extra, with calf, at $55@$60. The number received is as follows:

At Allerton's	35	At Browning's	250
At O'Brien's	46	At Chamberlain's	85
Total	416
Received the previous week	350

VEAL CALVES.

There has arrived the same number this week as last, and we have nothing of importance to notice. Four Calves are slow of sale. Sales of common to good quality, at 4½c.@5½c.

The receipts of the week are as follows:

At Allerton's	223	At Browning's	50
At O'Brien's	30	At Chamberlain's	61
Total	368
Received last week	382

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The receipts are larger again this week, but owners have obtained a slight advance in price, though the weather has not been altogether favorable, and the improvement is confined to the better qualities, which meet with ready sale; and the average gives below is confidently higher than last week. A great portion of these arriving are of the most meagre character, and this description is generally shunned by the Butcher, and are selling at very unprofitable prices for the farmer. We quote: Common Sheep at $1 50@$2 75; extra do. at $4@$6 50, occasionally $8 and $10; Lambs at $3 and $5, and extra do. at $6@$7. Mutton is more plenty in Washington Market, and sells at lower prices; by the carcass at 4½c.@7½c.; and Lamb at 5c.@8½c.

We subjoin the sales of Mr. McCARTY at Browning's:

50 Sheep & Lambs	@322 75	40 Sheep	@250 50
128 Sheep	491 94	120 Sheep	776 25
151 Sheep	565 50	179 Sheep	668 43
161 Sheep	757 50
907		Total	$2,906 17

which shows an average ⅌ head of $4 92. The receipts of the week are thus:

At Allerton's	1,602	At Chamberlain's	5,034
At Browning's	3,357
Total	10,993
Received the previous week	9,903

SWINE.

The weather this week has been rather warm, and has had the effect of checking the business to some extent, but considering the large number thrown upon the market, last week's prices have been well supported, packers having taken hold quite freely, and the abatement of last Wednesday has been recovered. We understand the number to arrive from the West is considerable, though not beyond the general expectation. The quality of those arriving of late has been very fair, the high price and scarcity of corn considered; though many of those represented and sold as corn-fed were fitted meetly on meat.

At ALLERTON'S we notice some very fine lots, some of which sold as high as $5½ live and $6 25@$6 37½ dressed. The range of packers' prices is $5@$6 37½ dead. The range of corn-fed Ohio is 4½c.@5½c. live weight.

The receipts of the week are as follows:

At Allerton's	3,308
At Union Drove Yards	4,500
Total	7,808
Received last week	6,447

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION. By Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women.—One Hundredth Edition, (100,000.) 12mo., pp. 250. On Fine Paper, Extra Binding, $1. Every complaint to which a woman is subject, from girlhood to womanhood, as also to wife and to mother, are fully described, with the causes, the symptoms, and the proper treatment, in a plain, simple, but in the most chaste and delicate manner. And in every case, the author, by describing her own sympathy with those described, the nature, character and cause of her complaint, and by proof which anxiety and suffering. The wife about to bring a mother into offer, need of instruction and advice of the author, and the mother, in the hour of her sickness, to which her unfavorable health consulting a medical gentleman, will find such instruction and advice, and also explains many symptoms which otherwise would occasion anxiety and alarm. How many are suffering from obstructions or irregularities peculiar to the female which injure the health, the office to which they are against, and for which their delicacy forbids seeking medical advice! How many suffer from prolapsus uteri, falling of the womb, or from fluor albus, (whites, debility, &c.) How many are in constant pain for many months, or impending miscarriage. How many have difficult, if not dangerous deliveries, and slow and uncertain recoveries! Some whose lives are hazarded during each times, will each find in its pages the means of prevention, and of relief. How many, by bitter experience, how much anguish, might have been spared to the sufferer, to her husband, to her relatives, by a timely possession of this little volume. It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage.

From the Albany Evening Journal, Jan. 10.

The resumption of the piratic-like work of the [illegible] of Erie is to be deeply regretted. Their re-[illegible] of railroad bridges will prove not [illegible] to the traveling public, but ruin [illegible] of Western merchants and farm-[illegible]. There is now waiting for shipment, west of [illegible], produce sufficient to have kept the roads con-[illegible] employed for two months. Much of this is perishable, and all of it is required for immediate [illegible]. Such a state of things is alike disgraceful to the country and to the locality where the outrages are perpetrated.

From Erie towards Harbor Creek, a distance of [illegible] miles, the rails have been torn up in various places, so that passengers over the road are obliged to walk in all a mile and a half. The bridge that was fired on Monday was still burning, and the passengers were obliged to walk through the ravine. The flooring of the other bridge has been torn up, but the string-pieces were of sufficient width to enable persons to walk on them with safety. Men with spades and ploughs and scrapers were at work removing all vestiges of track, embankment, &c. At Erie passengers were compelled to leave the cars and walk full half a mile to take the train. These cars carried them over the road a few miles, when they were obliged again to get out and walk half one mile further to take the train, which brought them to Buffalo.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

In the Supreme Court this morning, the writ of injunction in the matter of the Railroad troubles at Erie was granted, and ex-Police Marshal KEYSER was ordered to proceed to Erie. He starts this afternoon, and is empowered to summon such force as he chooses either here or at Erie.

Escape of a Fugitive Slave—The Massachusetts Legislature.

BOSTON, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The Evening Telegraph, in a postscript this afternoon, states that a warrant was issued to-day, by U. S. Commissioner CHARLES L. WOODBURY, for the arrest of JOHN JACKSON, an alleged fugitive slave, who, it is said, escaped from his owner, Capt. Fox, of Virginia. The Telegraph adds, that the Vigilance Committee got wind of the proceedings, and started JACKSON off immediately for Canada.

In the Legislature, to-day, the Joint Standing Committees were appointed, and PHILO SANDERS, of Boston, was chosen State Treasurer and Receiver General.

The New-Jersey Legislature—Governor's Message, &c.

TRENTON, N. J., Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The Houses of Representatives of this State completed its organization to-day, and then proceeded to business.

The Governor's message was read this morning. It represents the finances of the State in a flourishing condition, the revenues exceeding the expenditures. It recommends that no special banks be chartered, and favors a general banking law. It also recommends that some provision be made to naturalize foreigners at some other time than just before an election.

Know-Nothing Convention in Schenectady.

SCHENECTADY, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

A Know-Nothing Convention assembled here to-day, and about one hundred and twenty-five delegates were present from various parts of the State, mostly from the central portion of it.

The cities of New-York, Brooklyn and Buffalo were represented.

The Convention is mostly composed of those persons who have become dissatisfied with the action of the original lodges, and the delegates are principally recreants from the old lodges and parties who failed to get admitted under a former organization, and their object now is to effect a perfect State organization, so as to counteract the political influence of the old lodges, which has been used adversely to Mr. SEWARD and his partisans in the State.

The Convention met this afternoon and evening, and are now holding a third session. Nothing of importance has yet been done.

The Southern Convention at New-Orleans.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Jan. 8.

The great Southern Convention met here to-day. Only sixty delegates were present.

Mayor LEWIS was elected as the temporary Chairman, and a Committee was appointed to nominate permanent officers, when the Convention adjourned until to-morrow.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The Southern Convention assembled again to-day, and General LAMAR of Texas was elected permanent President. Ten States were represented, and one hundred and twenty delegates were present, including eighty-three from Louisiana.

Resolutions were offered for the improvement of the Galveston bar and harbor, and for the establishment of a Marine Hospital there. Adjourned until to-morrow.

$20,000 Voted for the Poor of New-York.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The Howard Association of this city voted, to-day, the sum of $2,000 for the benefit of the Poor of New-York.

Troubles among the Philadelphia Firemen.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

During a fire early yesterday morning in this city, the police captured eight men with the Northern Liberty Engine, armed with muskets and other weapons, having carried them to the fire strapped to the rope of the Engine. Lieut. SPERING fired his revolver at one man, who resisted his attempts to arrest him, but he was unable to secure him, and he was carried away severely wounded by his friends. No riot had taken place, but the arrests made probably prevented a murderous affray with the Northern Liberty Hose Company, as several conflicts have previously occurred between these Companies.

Philadelphia Money Market.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The rates for money remain as previously reported. The Stock market is firm, with sales as follows: Reading Railroad, 28½; Morris Canal, 13¾; Long Island Railroad, 13¾; Pennsylvania Railroad, 42¼; Pennsylvania State fives, 82½.

United States Senator from Missouri.

BUFFALO, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

In the Missouri Legislature on the 4th instant seven ballots were had for a United States Senator to succeed Mr. ATCHISON. The last ballot stood as follows: DONIPHAN, Whig, 54; BENTON, 40; ATCHISON, Democrat, 56; WILSON, 1—(DONIPHAN voting for WILSON.) The joint Legislature then adjourned until the next day.

The vote was strictly a party one.

The Mail Difficulty in South Carolina—Marine Disaster.

CHARLESTON, Monday, Jan. 8.

The mail difficulty will soon be definitely arranged. The terms have been agreed upon, but the schedule is not yet fixed.

The brig Adelaide (?)—[illegible] days from Laguayra, bound to New-York, put in here to-day in distress. Three sick, vessel leaky and spars injured. Hay cargo consisted of logwood.

Adjustment of the Southern Mail Difficulty, &c.

CHARLESTON, (S. C.) Tuesday, Jan. 9.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Fire in Henry-street.

A frame building in the rear of No. 286 Henry, near Scammel-street, and extending through to Madison-street, was totally destroyed by fire about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The building was erected for a carpenter-shop, but has been recently used for storage by its owner, Mr. GILBERT BISHOP, cabinet-maker. A considerable amount of cabinet-maker's fixtures, owned by Mr. BISHOP, and a large quantity of furniture, belonging to a Mrs. DIELL, boarding-house keeper, lately deceased, which was stored in the building, were also consumed. None of the property lost was insured. The entire loss amounts to about $2,000.

Fortunately the building No. 292, occupied as the Henry-street Grammar School by J. L. MARSHALL, escaped being injured, owing to the active exertions of the firemen. Through the judicious management of the Rector, the pupils were regularly dismissed without any accident, or creating the least panic among the scholars. The exercises of the school were in no way interrupted, and will be continued as usual.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—JAN. 10.

Before Judge Betts.

The case of Sickles vs. Young & Cutter, which has been on trial in this Court for several weeks back, is drawing to a close at last. The testimony was closed to-day, and to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, the counsel will commence summing up the case. Senator Seward will sum up for the defence to-morrow, and will be followed by Mr. Kell r for the plaintiffs. The case will probably go to the Jury this week.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—Jan. 10.

Before Judge Ingersoll.

The case of George J. Sigsons vs. James Wright, et al., which was taken up yesterday, was continued this morning.

The libellant files his libel to recover the sum of $49 61, freight on certain casks of sandry, &c., carried on board the bark Jason, from London to New-York.

The defence is that the goods were damaged by negligence on the part of the ship, to the amount of $10.

For libellants, Messrs. Beebe and Donohue. For respondents, Mr. Mehahon.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Hon. D. P. Ingraham.

DECISIONS.

Stephen Gerits vs. John I. De Arretta.—Motion to vacate and set aside judgment granted, on defendant's paying to plaintiff or attorney $50.

Meyer Morris vs. John E. Palmer et al.—Motion to vacate order of arrest denied, on payment of $10 costs.

M. O. H. Clarkson vs. J. W. Mitchell.—INGRAHAM, P. J.—The plaintiff improperly noticed the issue of fact for trial while there was an issue of law undisposed of, and on being informed thereof stipulated to have the cause stricken from the calendar for May term, at which it was noticed. Instead of doing so, he had the case marked down so that it was again placed on the calendar, and when reached, the plaintiff took an inquest.

The plaintiff did not perform his stipulation to have the cause stricken from the calendar. Had he done so, it would not have been again on the calendar at the place where it was when the inquest was taken. Having the cause marked down, was not striking it from the calendar.

When the cause was noticed for December Term the plaintiff then examined the calendar of causes added in December, and found no note of issue filed. There is no evidence of any knowledge that it had been put in for a previous term by the Clerk when marked down.

The plaintiff should have performed his stipulation, and when the cause could regularly be noticed have filed his note of issue. Not having done so, his proceedings are irregular, and must be set aside with $10 costs.

Theodore B. Glover vs. James T. Bertine.—INGRAHAM, P. J.—The defendant, after he received from the plaintiff the alleged notice of discontinuance, noticed the cause for trial, and since that time has proceeded on the reference. If the discontinuance was valid he should have moved for an order to that effect, instead of compelling the plaintiff to proceed with the cause.

The evidence of a settlement is not so clear as to warrant an order to discontinue the suit. Yet I see no reason why he should not be allowed to set the same up as a defence in a supplemental answer. The plaintiff will then have an opportunity of trying the validity of such an agreement.

As the defendant has caused considerable costs by proceeding in the suit since he has had possession of this alleged discontinuance, he should be required to pay the costs so incurred as a condition of leave to put in such answer. These proceedings become unnecessary, and new issues will be formed between the parties.

Motion for leave to file a supplemental answer granted on payment of all costs since defendant received notice of discontinuance of the plaintiff, abandons the further prosecution of the action, and if not then, on paying the costs of the reference. The costs of this motion to abide the event.

Before Judge Westcott.

NEW TRIE STREETS ARE USED.

William Johnson vs. Robert Dillon.—This was an action to recover damages for an assault and battery alleged to have been committed on the plaintiff in March, 1853. It appeared that the defendant had placed several bales of cotton in the street in front of a store he occupied on Rutting-st., and that the plaintiff, having to roll the cotton to perform his duty, which required the unlock of door to back a pot of pitch, and a quarrel ensued, the wrongness of the cotton bales of the defendant. At one stage of Dillon's case denied the cotton bales to be in danger, and went to warn him thereof, and before he arrived at the spot a pail of water had been filled of an adjoining hydrant, which Dillon was about emptying on the fire, when such a quarrel ensued, a mutual scuffle, and the latter struck a blow of a pitch-kettle, which struck the plaintiff, which it is said has caused the loss of eye-sight. The defence set up that Dillon was not liable, as he only interfered to save his property from destruction from a danger created by the plaintiff, who had illegally blocked a fire in the public streets. To this allegation the plaintiff replied that he had as much right to kindle a fire as the defendant had to place cotton bags in the street. Verdict for the Plaintiff—damages $50.

A Bloody Tragedy.

The New-Orleans Delta of the 1st inst. gives the following details of a bloody tragedy enacted on New-Year's eve, in a vile quarter of the city called Corderoy Alley, at a low groggery. Mr. MANION, the husband of the landlady, was attracted into the yard by some noise in the alley. He was approaching the small gate-way, when he received a blow on the head with a large stone bottle, which felled him to the earth, breaking the bottle to pieces. Five other persons came to his assistance, from the house; two of them ran immediately to the gate, to ascertain who had thrown the bottle, and as they were passing out into the alley, a knife was drawn across the abdomen of each, cutting so deeply that their bowels protruded, and they fell to the earth. The other two then followed out to see what had become of their companions, and were met at the gate with the same horrible fate, they also being cut across the abdomen, perhaps by the same hand and with the same knife, still reeking with the blood of their companions. A fifth succeeded in getting into the alley, and after a severe tussle with the assassins, who, he says, were four in number, he succeeded in escaping uninjured, and gave the alarm to the police. When the officers arrived, the spectacle presented in the alley was indeed most horrible—four persons lying in front of the gate-way, weltering in their blood, most of them with the bowels protruding from the deep gashes cut across the abdomen.

One of the wounded men was taken into the house, and the other three were conveyed to the hospital. All were still alive last evening, but it is thought that at least three of them cannot survive. It has been ascertained that this bloody assault was committed by a party of four persons, two of whom have been arrested, DAN CALLAGHAN and PAT HAGGERTY. The cause of this bloody occurrence is supposed to be an old feud that has for some time existed between the assailants and MANION, the keeper of the boarding-house.

A physician writes to the editor of the Louisville Courier, that a few days ago a young lady, of Oldham County, in her ordinary health—perfectly well, the family say—rode two miles to a physician and had a tooth extracted. Almost immediately a paralysis on one side of the body occurred, then stupor, and death followed in a few hours. She had not inhaled chloroform or anything of the kind.

Valparaiso Market.

Nov. 22.—This market has experienced no change worthy of particular mention since the date of our last report. The arrivals have been unusually limited, not a single vessel having come in whose cargo has caused any effect on prices as quoted in our figures, which, with very few exceptions, remains unaltered. 1,900 bags Rice, 1,500 marquetas Chancaca, 1,000 arrobas Mascovado Sugar, 4,000 dozen common Straw Hats, 140 tons Coals from Sidney; 100 qtls. yellow Soap, 16,000 Gunny Bags, and 100,000 feet dressed Lumber, planed, tongued and grooved, of which one-half is from Eastern United States, and one-half from Puget Sound. This latter is represented as superior to the former, and it being the first importation, will prove of some interest to the trade with that region.

Not a single cargo has reached us from around Cape Horn. There has been a very satisfactory business doing in a great variety of Dry Goods and assorted Merchandise, which it is out of our power to particularize in a price current.

COTTONS—There are some descriptions of American Cottons, as Bibb Drills, Denims, and stout bleached goods, which are become scarce and wanted; and at least 2 cents has been obtained for Bibb Drills to arrive. The staple articles in Prints, Muslins, &c., from England, France and Germany, are in fair demand. Cotton Thread continues abundant, and shows no sign of improvement. Madapollams of all grades are abundant, as also Gray Shirtings.

WOOLENS—Some improvement in the demand for Star Cloths; 6,000 yards has been sold at 75c. to 81c. in bond.

LINENS—Drills continue neglected in the absence of purchasers from the Lee Coast. Canvass is quite abundant, and prices are, if anything, a shade lower.

METALS—Prices remain unchanged.
